Apartment House Burns

27 Occupants Evacuated From 11-Unit Building

Fire ravaged a two-story brick apartment house in the 900 block on So. 11th early Wednesday morning after firemen evacuated 27 of the apartment house dwellers and hoped that no others were trapped inside.

Officials said they thought all the occupants of the 11 apartments had escaped the two-alarm blaze safely, however.

Martin Mayor Race Is Under Consideration

Bennett S. (Abe) Martin, president of the Martin Investment Co., is "considering" the possibility of filing as a candidate for mayor.

Asked about reports that he would make the race, Martin stated that he has been contacted in connection with both the mayor job and a post on the City Council. Martin indicated a preference for the position being vacated by Mayor Clark Jeary, but said he is still "definitely on the fence" in the matter.

Martin

Martin has been an active member of the Chamber of Commerce and has served on the city's Air Base reactivation committee and as a trustee of Lincoln General Hospital. He is also director of a number of utilities and construction firms.

Other Posts

Martin has served on the board of governors of the Investment Bankers Association of America and is past president of the Nebraska Investment Bankers Association. He is a member of Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Ahorney Guy Chambers, also reported as a prospective candidate for mayor, stated he "will definitely not run."

To date, only former County Attorney Frederick Wagener has expressed an intention to run for mayor. Wagener has stated that he will accept petitions now being circulated in his behalf to place his name on the April 5 primary ballot for mayor.

There are also three vacancies to be filled on the City Council with only two candidates to date. Attorney Leo Bartunek has completed his filing for the Council while incumbent Councilman Rees Wilkinson has announced he will file shortly.

SALK SHOTS DATES SET

Lancaster County and Lincoln school children in the first four primary grades will be lined up for polio vaccinations in April, according to City-County Health Department plans. The mass vaccinations will take place only if reports from last year's Salk field tests—due around April 1—are good, the Department said. For the complete story, see Page 2.

TAX SLASH REJECTED

Ike Wins Big Round In Senate

Levy Measure Is Returned To House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Democratic proposal to cut income taxes 900 million dollars a year was rejected by the Senate Tuesday on a 50-44 rollcall vote.

Forty-five Republicans and five Democrats joined forces to defeat the proposal and give the Eisenhower administration its biggest round so far in the current battling over taxes.

Sens. Curtis and Hruska, Nebraska Republicans, both voted with the majority to defeat the Democratic substitute tax plan.

The Senate then proceeded to pass on a voice vote a bill extending present corporate income and major excise tax rates for another year from April 1. This is just what the administration wanted.

Now the legislation must go back to the House, which approved the tax rate extensions but added a provision which would have reduced the tax bill of every income taxpayer and dependent by $20 each.

Compromise Offered

Senate Democratic leaders had offered an amendment as a compromise of the House-passed bill. It would have given a large group of taxpayers $20 income tax cuts next year, plus $10 for each dependent except a spouse. It was drawn to benefit mostly families earning under $5,000 a year.

There were predictions by some legislators that House spokesmen would put up a strong last-ditch stand for their plan in a Senate-House conference committee. But House Republican leaders will try to get the chamber to go along with the Senate version, and send the extension legislation to the President speedily.

The White House said President Eisenhower was pleased with the Senate's action Tuesday.

In bitter debate which preceded the showdown, opponents of any tax reduction at this time called the Democratic plan "nonsense and a hoax." They also charged it was presented "in the name of political expediency."

Argue In Vain

Supporters argued in vain it would distribute the tax burden more evenly, push up purchasing power and actually increase revenues by withdrawing some tax relief given to corporations and stockholders last year. By rejecting the whole compromise, the Senate voted to keep on the law books the relief for corporations and stockholders.

Democratic Sens. Byrd (Va.), George (Ga.), Ellender (La.), Holland (Fla.) and Robertson (Va.) lined up with administration forces against the compromise proposal. The only Republican voting on the other side was Sen. Langer (R-ND).

All but two members of the Senate were present for the test. The absentees were Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.), convalescing from major surgery, and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.), who is touring the Far East. Mrs. Smith was announced as opposed, however.

Under present law the corporate income tax rate is scheduled to drop from 52 to 47 per cent April 1. Federal excise taxes on automobiles, cigarettes, gasoline, liquor, beer, wine and transportation also are scheduled to drop then in varying degrees.

Extension Urged

Administration leaders want these extended for another 12 months to retain about three billion dollars in revenue.

After turning down the Democratic compromise, the Senate voted 61-32 to approve the action of its Finance Committee in stripping the House income tax reduction from the bill.

Sixteen Democrats, mostly southerners, voted with the Republicans on this question. The switch was seen as a move to bolster Senate Democrats who must work out a compromise with the House later.

Byrd, chairman of the Finance Committee, said he expects a determined battle by House Democrats to try to save their $20 income tax reduction plan.

In the rejected compromise, two major sections of the 1954 omnibus tax law would have been repealed in view of the 900 million dollar revenue loss involved in the tax cut. One would have been the tax relief granted on income from stock dividends. The others would have been the accelerated depreciation and expense reserve provisions voted for the benefit of corporations.

Oil Tax Bill OK'd, Then Held

Beer And Liquor Levies Increased

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

After listening to arguments for three hours giving the pros and cons on a severance tax for the benefit of the permanent school fund, the revenue committee of the Legislature Tuesday voted to send it to general law. They then voted to hold it in committee while several amendments are prepared.

While in the revenue raising mood, the committee then voted to submit a new bill providing for an increase in the tax on beer from 4 to 6 cents a gallon and on liquor from 1.20 to 1.25.

The vote to submit the liquor bill was 7 for, one against and one not voting. The vote on the severance tax advancement was 5 for and 3 against.

It was estimated that the increased beer tax would bring $434,000 to the state general fund each two years and that the increase in liquor revenue would be $66,000 in that period.

Below Average

Sen. Joseph Martin, Grand Island, a member of the committee, said the national average state tax is 10 cents on beer and $1.50 on liquor. One reason advanced for the increased tax was increased budget requirements for salary increases for the commission and its secretary.

The governor's lay committee on education led the support for the oil and gas severance tax and former Gov. Robert Crosby, who appointed the committee, led the arguments in behalf of the tax. He said that the 2 per cent tax would go 97 per cent to the permanent school fund with the 3 per cent for administration.

The bill was introduced by Sen. Sam Klaver, who introduced the former governor. Sen. Norman Otto, Kearney, a co-introducer, said it is necessary to broaden the tax base and this method would retain a small proportion of depleted natural resources for future generations.

'Future Resource'

John Lynch, representing the Nebraska State Educational Association, argued that oil and gas are an "exhaustible natural resource" and are the "heritage of the entire state." He said that the income would be used to "develop a future resource—the children of the state."

Mrs. Ralph Beechner, representing the state PTA, asserted that additional income is needed for the schools.

W. W. Cook, Beatrice banker representing the Nebraska School Boards Association, said the new tax would reduce the real estate taxes. "I don't believe there is any other school board in the state," he asserted, in explaining that operating costs are increasing.

He argued that salaries, building maintenance and supplies are all costing more.

'Now Grown Up'

B. R. Gyger, Omaha, said the oil industry in the state has now "grown up and should be ready and willing" to pay the tax. He said it should not be "whether to tax but how much."

J. H. McNish, Sidney, representing the Land and Royalty Owners Association, led the opposition. He termed the bill a "discriminatory and unjust tax" that would shackle the industry. He called it a "communist philosophy to call resources a common heritage."

Nate Holman, Lincoln, appeared and said the Associated Industries of the state opposed the bill. He said they were striving to keep the economy of the state in balance and opposed the tax on a new industry.

George Coulter read a resolution opposing the bill passed by the Panhandle County Officials Association.

PAT WARD — court directive unlocked her lips.

—Jelke Trial—

Pat Ward Lips Are Unlocked

Call Girl Breaks, Bares Scarlet Past Life

NEW YORK (AP)—Call girl Pat Ward broke down completely Tuesday at the vision of her scarlet past. Unable to go on, her slim body wracked by loud sobs, she won brief overnight respite as star witness at Mickey Jelke's vice trial.

Earlier, her voice fragile, her chin firm, she invoked the Fifth Amendment to try to avoid baring her soul. For five tense minutes the trial hung in the balance before a court directive unlocked her lips.

The lithe brunette pulled up short when asked to name the father of her illegitimate child. Calm at the time, she refused to answer that or any further questions. But she went ahead later on order of the court.

But as she struggled on, Miss Ward became more and more distraught. When the state finally began to pin her down on the names of her cash lovers, she dropped her head in her hands and let the tears flow.

Before Miss Ward took the stand, the defense injected fleeting references on the record to movie stars John Carradine and Mickey Rooney. They were pictured as pre-Jelke acquaintances of Miss Ward.

The 21-year-old Cafe Society call girl was the state's first and its major witness at Jelke's retrial on charges of compulsory prostitution.

At his first trial two years ago, her testimony was delivered behind doors locked against press and public by court edict.

Miss Ward is one of two girls Jelke is accused of recruiting to prostitution. If convicted he faces up to 40 years in prison.

The names Miss Ward gagged over in late afternoon had little public impact. She mentioned a Mr. Lewis, a Mr. Karshan, a Mr. Lowe.

She testified Jelke steered her to them. She gave them a hard luck story and two of them were softened enough to give her money. But she said none of them demanded anything in return.

The state then led Miss Ward up to one Bill Cahn, not identified further. Miss Ward said she sold herself to him and four or five of his friends on her first excursion into high priced hustling.

At the time, the 25-year-old Jelke was one of New York's most eligible bachelors, listed in the Social Register of society blue-bloods. Miss Ward claimed Jelke won her love, gave her a ring and led her to believe they would be married.

Highway Bill 'Hearing' Held In Hotel

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

The state Highway Commission, which remained mum at the public hearing on the highway recodification law, invited members of the public works committee to a hotel room session Tuesday night where they gave their views on the bill.

This unusual session, to which at first the press was told they would not be welcome, turned out to be a plea by the Commission that the bill be passed together with the recommended map of the state highway system.

"We do not want the press in here do we?" Commission Chairman Arthur L. Coad inquired of C. E. Metzger, the last member of the Commission to arrive.

"There is nothing that I have to say that is at all secret," Metzger responded.

Coad then allowed reporters to stay.

Coad explained to the members of the legislative committee that the Commission wanted them to have the "thinking of the Commission on the recodification bill." He urged that the Legislature be alert so that proper safeguards are included.

He suggested that the limitations on the length of the total highway system be liberalized to exclude the inter-state system. He urged that public hearings be provided on abandonment or relocations of highways.

Sen. Amos Morrison of Mitchell responded, "I'm not particularly concerned about hearings. Provision is made for plenty of notice in the bill."

Fred M. Attebury, Commission member from Mitchell, urged that provision be made for checks and balances. "I will insist that on relocation or abandonment that the people being served by the road be heard."

Merle Kingsbury, Ponca, told the senators that the Commission wants advice. He said there is a "no-man's land" of authority on the relocations and abandonment of roads.

"If we are to give advice as provided by law, we can only do it after public hearings."

Attebury interjected that the "technical side of road building without good, practical common sense isn't worth a tinker's dam."

He continued, "The practical man makes plans first and the technical man carries out details."

Review Asked

Kingsbury said the sufficiency rating on which improvements are decided is a good approach but should be "subject to review" each two years by the Legislature.

He said there is always possibility of errors and the Legislature has power to correct them.

Sen. Morrison questioned such a plan saying, "You can't get 43 men to agree to anything."

Metzger said it was necessary to have the sufficiency rating as a base for highway improvement. He said most states are now using it.

"If it is not used we will return to political roads," Sen. Frank Nelson interposed.

Chairman Coad questioned whether there should not be a limit on spending by the Highway Department without competitive bids. Metzger called attention to the fact that they have to move rapidly to meet emergencies.

There was talk that they could get Commission approval or approval from the governor.

"We are just getting to the place where we don't trust anybody but the Governor," Sen. William Moulton answered.

"We can't leave every decision up to him because he has too many other duties. He has confidence in his appointees."

Metzger urged that the committee consider carefully a provision that the Highway Department can spend up to $100,000 for buildings, and other items. He suggested that the Legislature act on all building and said many buildings are now badly needed.

Co-operation Told

He then told of how the Commission had co-operated with the Department in recodification of the laws. He said it was very important because many of the present laws go back to the "horse and buggy days." He said it is impossible to build roads in some sections without violating the law.

He said the highway map was his duty to prepare and that he drive over every mile of state highway in his district. "I hope some of the criticism of the map will not interfere with the bill," Metzger said.

"I have had little complaint on the map covering my district," Coad also said he had driven over all of the roads and told of the many meetings held with Department engineers in preparing the map.

Metzger, himself a former member of the Legislature, warned the committee that the county road laws are in worse shape than those governing the state system.

Sen. Moulton, chairman of the public works committee, told the commission that the committee would take their recommendations under consideration. He said they had no questions but were glad to get the Commission views.

Gruenther, Dulles A-Policies Differ

Atomic Weapons Ready In Event Of War III

... Gruenther

PARIS (INS) — Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther said Tuesday the forces he commands planned to use atomic weapons only in the event of a third world war, and warned that the West is superior to Russia in ability to deliver the H-bomb.

The supreme commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) ruled out the use of atomic weapons in "brush-fire" conflicts.

After his luncheon speech, Gruenther announced he will leave Friday on a one week visit to the United States.

He told the Supreme Headquarters Correspondents' Association that the West has forged a military advantage over the Red bloc through its massive power of retaliation.

He said that if Russia attacked the West it might score "initial successes," but would lose in the end because of Allied air and industrial might.

"They Would Lose"
Gruenther said: "If the Russians should attack today, I mean this 15th of March, they would lose the war."

Gruenther reported the Soviets today have "the strongest aggregation of military power in the history of the world," but also have their weaknesses.

He said the U.S. B47s and B50s gave NATO "tremendous" retaliatory capacity.

Gruenther added that the West has an incontestable superiority over Russia in ability to deliver thermonuclear weapons (the H-bomb). He said:

"The tide is now running in our favor."
He warned: "There should be no faltering in this last mile."

A spokesman at Supreme Headquarters said the statement by U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in Washington Tuesday, on use of atomic weapons, did not conflict with Gruenther's remarks. Dulles said the U.S. probably would use small, precision aimed A-weapons in any future fighting.

Nuclear Punch Is Planned In Any Fight

... Dulles

WASHINGTON (INS) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles warned Communists around the world Tuesday that the United States probably will use small, precision-aimed atomic weapons in any future fighting.

Dulles revealed the United States has made almost daily tests of these small new weapons and has found that they have neither a fallout nor radiation danger over wide areas.

And he forecast that because of these precision weapons it will not be necessary in future wars to wipe out large populations with the kind of saturation bombing that was needed in World War II.

There appeared to be a contradiction between the Dulles statement at his news conference and the declaration of Gen. Alfred Gruenther, NATO chief, in Paris that atomic weapons would be used in major wars but not in "brush-fire" wars.

Conventional

The secretary said flatly that he would imagine that if the U.S. is involved in military action anywhere in the world the new atomic weapons would be used, replacing older conventional weapons of far less destructive power. He repeated that the new atomic weapons are becoming conventional.

At his first news conference since his return from Asia 10 days ago the secretary also:

1. Gave the strongest hint yet that the United States may have to enter any fight the Communist Chinese state to try to take the off-shore islands of Quemoy and Matsu from Chiang Kai-shek.

2. Warned Red China that if she opens armed aggression anywhere in Asia the U.S. probably will be obliged to lift the restraints from both the Chinese Nationalists and South Koreans and let them take the more offensive posture which he said they both desire.

3. Said the United States' present policy does not include blockade of the China coast and that therefore indicated if it was unlikely the U.S. 7th Fleet would be ordered to stop the Finnish tanker Aruba en route to Red China with jet fuel.

SEN. KNOWLAND:

Asks Yalta Facts

Dulles Says Papers
Will Be Published
'Some Day'

By WARREN ROGERS Jr.
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said Tuesday it "doesn't make sense" for Congress to get its information on the Yalta conference second-hand. He said it was "high time" to get the facts direct.

Knowland was commenting on the current controversy over just how to turn loose the official record of the 1945 meeting. This was the meeting in which the United States, Great Britain and Russia agreed on the terms under which Russia would enter the war against Japan.

Secretary of State Dulles said Tuesday the Yalta papers will be published some day—it's just a question of when. He repeated the State Department's policy to let high-ranking members of Congress including certain committee chairmen, read them now on a confidential basis.

Rejected By George

Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Monday rejected the offer, saying he did not want to be held responsible for almost certain leaks. He also said he didn't want to know what was in the papers if the public couldn't be told too.

Knowland, the Republican leader, commented that each committee will have to make its own decision "but these records should be made available to the proper committees. Knowland is one of those scheduled to get copies if they want them.

He said he didn't think the leaks would be anything more than usual.

Talking to reporters, Knowland said there was no sense in Congress relying on the published memoirs of such persons as Prime Minister Winston Churchill, former Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius and Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late president.

Knowland said Congress, even 10 years after, is still making decisions which relate to what went on at Yalta, and couldn't very well do its work without knowing all.

Dulles was asked at his news conference Tuesday what he intended to do with the documents.

Eventually

He replied: Eventually publish them, as always anticipated. The question was, he said, when to publish them. He added it could not be said whether publication would be soon or months away.

He was asked whether Churchill was blocking publication. Dulles asked to be excused from replying.

Churchill is the last of three Yalta principals still alive. His fellow conferees were President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin. However, many lesser participants — such as Alger Hiss and Charles H. Chip Bohlen — are alive.

The governor attended a luncheon in Omaha at the new quarters of the Nebraska Society for Crippled Children as the guest of the society's executive committee and board of trustees.

NREA Officers Are Installed

New officers of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association were installed at the final session of the annual convention here Tuesday.

Power Cost Cut, Loan Hike Seen

Lower cost power next year from Missouri Basin dams will offset interest rate increases on REA loans, the convention of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association was told Tuesday.

Association Secretary John Clema said that 100,000 kilowatts of power will become available to Nebraska from Fort Randall and other Missouri Basin dams. This will provide one fourth of the total power used in the state and come in at a cost of 4 mills a kilowatt to the rural systems which are now paying on the average of 10 mills.

$3,600,000 Peak

The lower power cost benefits will arrive in time to be effective against rising debt service costs. Nebraska REA's net interest charges of $2,500,000 last year. By 1958 the charges will reach a peak of $3,600,000.

Ray Lowery of Oakes was elected president of the association. Other officers named at a board of directors meeting were: Lyle Marotz of Hoskins, first vice president; Frank Haumont of Broken Bow, second vice president; Noral Diehl of Stratton, third vice president; L. C. Geis of Seward, treasurer; and Paul Ogier of Wallace, secretary.

Water shortages in the Missouri Basin have delayed some of the power plans. E. J. Dickerson of Grand Island, division power chief of the Bureau of Reclamation, told the convention. Indications are that spring runoff into the Missouri will be only 75 per cent of normal this year.

Plans for power plants under the Mid-State Reclamation District program were sketched by Secretary J. K. McKinney of Grand Island.

N.Y. STOCKS REBOUND

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made its biggest daily climb in more than 13 years Tuesday in a reaction from a week's slide.

The recovery won back much of the loss sustained Monday when the market took its worst daily fall in almost five years.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed $2.90 to $154.40. This was the biggest day's gain since Sept. 5, 1939, the first week of World War II.

The boost in the average indicated an increase of about three billion dollars in the quoted value of all listed securities on the New York Stock Exchange. This compared with an estimated four billion dollars loss in Monday's drop.

If Salk Proves Out . . . City-County Kids To Get Polio Vaccine In April

By ALLEN EDEE
Star Staff Writer

Polio vaccinations are tentatively scheduled to start for children in the first four grades here April 12, if national tests prove the Salk vaccine effective.

City-County Health Director James T. Googe said Tuesday night that 9,000 parent request forms will be sent to teachers for distribution next Tuesday to children eligible for the vaccination. Parents will be asked to return the forms within 10 days.

No blood testing will accompany the anticipated vaccinations.

The vaccinations will be given with parents consent to children in the first four primary grades, with the exceptions of the youngsters who received Salk shots during last year's field tests. In areas where the field tests weren't held last year, only children in the first two primary grades will be eligible for the shots, Dr. Googe added.

The program set up includes 47 participating physicians vaccinating approximately 1,500 to 1,800 children daily for four days.

Dr. Googe said the earliest vaccination program possible must be planned to avoid the polio season and the rush of school closings.

The big "if" in carrying off the vaccinations, Dr. Googe said, depends upon the evaluation results of last year's Salk vaccinations due to be announced about April 1st from the University of Michigan.

No afternoon vaccination sessions are planned except for the school-aged children from out in the county who will come to the City-County Health Department Building from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Southeastern Representative for the Polio Foundation, Clinton Belknap, announced that if proved effective, vaccinations will also be available through the family physician to other school-aged children.

Schedule

The tentative polio vaccination schedule, showing vaccination centers and other schools sending children to center:

Tuesday, April 12, 19 and May 17: Merit, Battle, Capitol, Trinity Lutheran and Seventh Day Adventist both to Capitol, Belmont, Clinton, College View Elementary, Union College Elementary to College View Elementary, Hartley, Norwood Park and St. Patrick to Hartley.

Wednesday, April 13, 20, May 18: Hawick, Sacred Heart, Cathedral, St. Teresa, Holy Family, St. Thomas to St. Teresa, Holmes, Hawthorne, Eastridge to Hawthorne, and the Northeast Child Center.

Thursday, April 14, 21, and May 19: Huntington, Park Lake View and Willard to Park, Saratoga, Randolph, and Hayward.

Friday, April 15, 22 and May 20: Prescott, Bethany, Riley to Bethany, Sheridan, Irving Child Center and Calvary Lutheran to Sheridan, Elliott, Bancroft to Elliott, Blessed Sacrament, Lincoln Day School to Blessed Sacrament.

Last year, Eicher won a Gulf Oil Co. fellowship of $1,500 for his current graduate work. The year before that he received the Johnson Award for being the outstanding junior in geology at Colorado University.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. A graduate of Lincoln High School, he attended the University of Nebraska before enrolling at Colorado.

—N.Y. Exchange— Probe Of Stocks To Continue

Senate Hearings Are
'Justified'—Fulbright

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey said Tuesday the Senate stock market investigation might deal a blow to public confidence in the American economy.

But Chairman Fulbright (D-Ark) of the Senate Banking Committee said he would not be "dissuaded" from continuing the inquiry. He called the committee's hearings "thoroughly justified."

After Tuesday's session, which featured head-on clashes between Fulbright and Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), Fulbright told newsmen he was willing to take any criticism that comes his way if he can help avoid a crash such as occurred in 1929.

Fulbright insisted he has no opinion whether stock prices had risen too high in the past 18 months or whether recent sharp declines were healthy or unhealthy.

But he said a note of caution sounded in 1928 might have helped prevent the 1929 crash.

The stock market, which Monday ran into its heaviest day's loss in five years, rebounded Tuesday with its biggest day's climb in more than 15 years. Some brokers have blamed the recent drops in stock prices on testimony given at the Senate hearings, but others have disputed this.

Humphrey told the committee that criticism of government agencies and speculation about what they might do in the way of restrictive action could "easily contribute to a questioning of confidence and uncertainty as to what the future may hold."

"We are on sound economic ground, based on sound economic principles, and there is no reason why we should not go forward unless confidence is badly injured or destroyed."

Dr. J. J. Hompes Leaves More Than $275,000

An inventory of the estate of Dr. Joseph J. Hompes, prominent Lincoln ophthalmologist who died Nov. 16, places its value in excess of $275,000.

Listed in Lancaster County Court, the inventory lists U.S. bonds with maturity valued at $207,500; insurance benefits amounting to $66,952.73, and other personal property valued at approximately $3,000. Listed, but not valued, were 1,807 shares of stock in nine corporations, including 665 shares of Hompes Investment Co., and 294 shares of Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas.

Real estate holdings of two Lincoln properties and a land parcel in Weld County, Colo., were not valued.

The estate was left in trust—subject to life estates of a brother and sister—to the University of Nebraska Foundation and Lincoln Public Library in equal shares.

FHA Home Loan Total For State $228 Million

How much money is involved in Federal Housing Administration loan insurance in the state? how many applications are received by the state office?

These questions arise in light of a Hoover Commission report which recommends shifting the agency to private enterprise.

Last year the state office insured about $21 million in mortgaged loans. Since the creation of FHA, the total amount in the state was $228 million on Jan. 1, 1955.

Of this total, about $18 million was for rental housing units. The office also insures about $7,500,000 in property improvement loans each year. The overall total for these is about $47 million in the state.

The state office has processed a total of 61,500 dwelling unit applications, of which from 60 to 65 per cent were insured. Last year 6,032 applications were processed.

Irrigation Growth Seen As A Result Of Cheap A-Power

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Reclamation Commissioner W. A. Dextheimer said Tuesday cheap power from atomic fuel will bring "one of the greatest expansions of irrigation the world has yet experienced."

In a speech prepared for the Associated General Contractors of America, the directing head of the government's reclamation program for the 17 western states and Alaska declared:

rather pessimistically forecast that the dawn era of atomic power will render hydroelectric power plants obsolete and uneconomical.

"... hydroelectric plants will continue to be built as long as the need for energy exists and generally as long as they can be constructed as part of multiple projects from which other benefits will be derived."

He said only the cost of pumping water is keeping millions of acres of land from production under irrigation.

Owners Say Tanker Aruba Will Go Straight To Red China With Jet Fuel

... Cargo Subject Of World Riff

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—Owners of the Finnish tanker Aruba said Tuesday the ship will pass Singapore and go straight to Red China with its cargo of jet plane fuel.

The Aruba now is believed to be somewhere in the Indian Ocean. It has 13,000 tons of jet fuel aboard and is a subject of international controversy reaching into the Congress of the United States.

The tanker picked up the fuel at the Black Sea port of Constanta in Red-ruled Romania.

British officials in Singapore said during the day the tanker would not receive refueling service there or at any other British-controlled port. U.S. Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) had said in Washington the United States should try to get Britain to prevent the jet fuel cargo from reaching Red China.

No Change

Gunnar Damstroem, president of the Re-Be Shipping Co., owner of the ship, said here the tanker would not call at Singapore but go to a port near Red China's Hainan Island off the south shore of the China mainland. He said this meant no change in the vessel's intended route.

By anchoring near Hainan, the Aruba not only would avoid entering a British-controlled port but also might avoid the Nationalist Chinese blockade. Hainan's nearest foreign neighbor is the Communist part of Viet Nam, Northern Indochina.

Marine experts here believe the Aruba can reach China without having to refuel.

Car Dealers Drop Assessment Suits

Twelve Lincoln auto dealers have dismissed their Lancaster District Court appeals from action of the County Board of Equalization.

The 12 suits were similar to a Box Butte County case in which the State Supreme Court upheld last December values set by the State Board of Equalization.

The Box Butte dealer had sought to have cars in dealers' stocks assessed on a difference basis than individually-owned and licensed vehicles.

The Lancaster County Board of Equalization had refused to disturb the assessed valuations on dealer stocks set in line with the State Board's figures and the Lincoln dealers had appealed from the action.

Normal minimums range from 25 in the north and west to 30 in the southeast, and normal highs from the low 50s in the north to the middle 50s in the south. Precipitation will average from .25 to .35 of an inch, occurring as showers in the west Thursday and over the state Friday.

County Okays New Insurance Coverage Plan

An insurance coverage plan for the Lancaster County highway department shops at 101 P and unlicensed vehicles such as motor graders has been approved by the County Board.

The new three-year policy includes comprehensive coverage, with $1,000 deductible on approximately $40,000 worth of heavy equipment.

The annual increase in rates will average $327.92 for the additional coverage. Coverage on shop buildings and contents against fire is on a 80 per cent co-insurance basis with coverage up to $85,500.

Previous road patrols and similar equipment were covered for damage only while in the shops, which, according to the county engineer, was seldom except for repairs.

The Board agreed that the county should be self-insured for minimum losses, but insurance coverage should be extended for greater risks and include road operation.

The new premium rate of $1,925.94 compares with $1,533.12 under previous coverage.

The policy will be written by Weaver-Minier Co., of Lincoln, which has supplied the coverage in the past.

Not So Smart

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey is a smart man, accepted within cabinet circles as the one member of the official family exerting the greatest influence upon the President.

Mr. Humphrey appeared before the Senate Banking Committee Tuesday to tell it that its stock market inquiry may be undermining public confidence in the American economy.

And what did the market do then?

It bounced back. Most of the signs for the quoted securities were on the plus side. In the early trading there were gains ranging up as high as three dollars a share. The experts who knew their Wall Street ascribed the recovery to a natural reaction after last week's slump. A few crawled out on the limb and said that Humphrey's statement may have helped send the market up. Just why or how was not clear from the news columns. If one man's words, granting that he is a smart man, can affect the market in this fashion, then we might be in a hot spot.

In his testimony before the committee Humphrey said this:

"Confidence is a subtle thing. It manifests itself in many ways. A crowd leaving a theater at the close of the play will walk out in orderly fashion in short order. But if as the curtain goes down someone calls 'fire,' terror can reign and great injury result."

Mr. Humphrey, we think, could have come up with a happier simile. What should instill confidence in the American people is the wisdom gained from experience. It was a brutal lesson learned in the crash of 1929 but there is every reason to believe it was a lesson well learned. There is no evidence in the small towns, in the bustling cities of the Midwest, or in the metropolitan communities that anything comparable to conditions in 1929 prevail today. Then the American people were on a gambling binge. They were not only gambling but they were borrowing even to their shoelaces in order to speculate. All of that has been taken care of to the best of man's ingenuity. There is a limit on margins, a limit which can be applied more rigorously when and if circumstances justify. What is more important there is a complete absence of the unwholesome atmosphere which characterized the great bull market of the 20's.

That it seems to us ought to be said even though it might credit some of the steps taken under the New Deal with being wise and sound.

A Case In Point

The case of Eugene William Buff is an extremely absorbing one in light of the discussion of prison management which has been going on in Nebraska.

Buff, 33, was sentenced to a life term in the Iowa state penitentiary for what the news columns describe as his $26,000 "spur of the moment" holdup of the Commercial State Bank at Afion, Ia. He staged that robbery a day after his release from the Nebraska state prison at the end of a 15 year armed robbery term, shortened by slightly less than 5 years for good behavior.

sawed-off shotgun in Council Bluffs last Thursday, only six hours after he was released from the Nebraska prison. He had purchased a car for $200, money which he had accumulated through the sale of tool leather and crochet work which he had done while in prison. At the Nebraska prison records show that Buff had cut an officer while attempting to escape on the first day of November of 1946. In the summer a year later a home-made dagger was found in his cell, and still a year later he was cited for using profane and obscene language to officers.

Authorities said that he had purchased a

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

What has been happening in Washington in recent hours in connection with the highly controversial Yalta papers borders on the incredible. Here, however, is a classic example of the confusion, the division, and apparently the cross purposes in Far Eastern policies which exists within the administration.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, we assume, is speaking for President Eisenhower, with a full knowledge, understanding and approval of the administration in restricting distribution of the Yalta papers to a small circle of the members of Congress, both Republican and Democrats with a confidential tag imposed upon their contents in the interest of national security. That decision represents the view of the man now fully charged with responsibility for the handling of America's interests in the foreign field. It is Mr. Dulles' decision. It is impossible to believe that it is a judgment arrived at without full discussion of all phases of the controversy with President Eisenhower. But that does not satisfy elements within the Republican party, notably the party's floor leader in the upper branch of Congress, Sen. Knowland of California. Knowland angrily demands that the papers be made public and in this demand he has the support of a sizeable bloc of his colleagues.

That is not the end of this amazing disagreement which has arisen. We had a partner at Yalta—in fact two—the second now looked upon with full justification because of subsequent developments as a dangerous enemy. But it has been the burden of the news columns that Britain, which participated in Yalta, with the aging Churchill still occupying the post of British premier, that the Yalta papers should not be made public. The British look upon it through entirely different glasses. Yalta, they say, is still too close to our time, and some of those who participated in Yalta still are living, hence their attitude.

Perhaps there is a better argument still to be made for the position that Secretary Dulles has taken. In all that has taken place since then it would be an impossibility to recreate the historic atmosphere in the minds of millions of people which existed at the time of the Yalta discussions. A great deadly war was in progress. To win it and to win it as quickly as possible in order to avert unparalleled destruction of property over a considerable surface of the globe, and to shorten the sacrifice of human life certainly was the dominant note which prevailed. There is the added consideration that Yalta's mistakes, whatever they may be, are mistakes which have been made, irreparable, beyond repair. To march back 10 years may satisfy politics but to assume that what happened at Yalta will contribute to an enduring peace is to venture beyond the bounds of reason. Finally it is to be noted that a man of Sen. George's stature refused to accept the Yalta papers on the ground that leaks are bound to happen and he does not care to be placed in the position of knowing the secret record. It is a sound position which George and some of his associates have taken.

Beyond question America's need today is a measure of unity in meeting the challenge of foreign policy. Yalta will not contribute to that. Yalta will only add to bitter controversy held at home. And in the common sense virtues of the American people, pressed and burdened as they are by the troubles of a troubled world, it is regrettable that this division has risen within two wings of the Republican party and which one wing seems to be more critical of Secretary Dulles than the natural opposition party in Congress.

Too Much License

Hard working burglars in Colorado did a neat piece of trolling when they used fishhooks and line to land $350 in currency through a small hole they had made in a safe. Contrary to custom which gets people arrested for fishing without a license these gentlemen got into trouble with the police for fishing with too much license.

DREW PEARSON

Patman Strikes At Rubber Monopoly

WASHINGTON — Democrats took a long step toward throwing away two of their chief campaign issues — "giveaways" and helping small business — when a top Democrat, Congressman Carl Vinson of Georgia, bucked and bristled over giving a hearing to the Small Business Committee regarding the sale of 11 government-owned synthetic rubber factories.

Vinson was all set to join with the Ikeites in handling the synthetic rubber factories over to the big tire and oil companies when his fellow Democrat, Wright Patman of Texas, blew the whistle.

Patman, as chairman of the House Small Business Committee, had prepared a resolution with his colleague, Sid Yates of Illinois, pointing to the unfairness of the synthetic rubber giveaway. But chairman Vinson of the Armed Services Committee didn't want to listen. He even challenged Patman's veracity, which to a Texan of integrity is tantamount to high treason.

"Mr. Patman, we are delighted to have you here this morning," the Georgian gushed as the hearings opened.

"Thank you, Mr. Chairman," replied Patman, "I shall make . . ."

"Wait a minute," cut in Vinson, "Before you start, for the record, I want to find out—are you speaking in behalf of the Small Business Committee, or are you speaking in your individual capacity as a member of Congress?"

"My committee has had no time to call a meeting," replied Patman. "But I was assured by a majority of members of my committee that I could speak for them. In addition, I conferred with the ranking Republican member of my committee."

"I suggest that the names of the members who have authorized Mr. Patman to speak for them be inserted in the record," broke in Republican Congressman Bates of Massachusetts.

"Don't you think that is going very far, Mr. Chairman?" inquired Patman, angrily.

The meeting almost blew up at this point as several members, including Democrats Paul Kilday of Texas and Mel Price of Illinois, tried to be recognized by the chair.

"We will get along very well if everybody will be quiet," thundered Vinson.

"Do I understand that you are going to question the right of Mr. Patman to appear before this committee?" demanded Kilday.

"No, sir," sputtered Vinson. "Not at all. That wasn't even intimated by any question of mine."

"I am not too sure that it wasn't," rejoined Kilday of Texas. "What was the purpose of your question about his appearing for a majority of the Small Business Committee?"

"I just wanted the record to show that he is not appearing by direction of the committee, but rather in behalf of a majority of the committee," explained Vinson.

Patman then explained how his resolution, prepared by the Small Business Committee, would stop the sale of the rubber factories on March 26 as now scheduled by Eisenhower. Supporting him, Congressman Yates presented a masterful report which impressed even hostile committee members.

Yates showed that under the Eisenhower rubber sale, 87½ per cent of all rubber production would be in the hands of the big four tire companies who worked together to control the sale of tires.

Shell Oil, for instance, which takes over the government rubber factory in Los Angeles, has a contract with Goodyear and Firestone to sell them rubber; then Goodyear and Firestone turn around and sell Shell tires. These tires are distributed to the public through Shell gasoline stations.

And Congressman Yates showed how any Shell dealer who tries to stock any other tire competing with Goodyear or Firestone loses his Shell franchise.

The Standard Oil companies also have a deal with U.S. Rubber to make Atlas tires, sold exclusively through Standard Oil filling stations. No other tire can be sold by Standard Oil Stations except Atlas.

Thus the Eisenhower rubber sale plan, Congressman Yates said, would tighten this monopoly by putting all the government rubber factories in the hands of Shell, Goodyear, U.S. Rubber, Goodrich, Firestone, Phillips Petroleum, Texas Oil, Sears Roebuck, Anaconda Copper, Edicott Johnson, and Dunlop Tires of England.

CREDIT FOR ARGENTINA

Patman suggested that the House Armed Services Committee and the Senate Banking Committee get together and negotiate for the disposal of the synthetic plants — "so the little fellow won't be crowded out."

"It takes a pretty good-sized corporation to run one of these plants, interjected Vinson. 'As I visualize it, it is not in the sphere of small business. This is big business.'"

When Patman explained that small business had no way of getting "bank credit" to buy the synthetic plants, without some help from the government, Vinson yawned: "Oh, well."

"We find an agency of this government (Export-It-Bank) with $15,000,000,000 of capital stock, provided by the taxpayers," continued Patman, "that is making a loan for a steel mill in Argentina of $60,000,000 plus other advances for equipment that will bring the taxpayers' outlay up to close to $100,000,000 for that one plant in Argentina."

"If we are able to spend so much money to help other countries like Argentina build a steel mill, why shouldn't we be able to help our own small business to buy some of these synthetic rubber plants in order to have a competitive rubber market in the United States?"

Georgia's Vinson came back with the stock query: "Why, then, shouldn't we do that in every other enterprise?"

"The difference is," replied Patman, "that in this case you are delivering lock, stock and barrel to the rubber industry, facilities that will be used against the taxpayers as a monopoly."

CAUSTIC SENATOR

Florida's matinee idol Sen. George Smathers was recording a speech the other day, in support of President Eisenhower's reciprocal trade program.

A visitor in the recording studios stopped Smathers as he was leaving.

"I am a Kentucky coal-mine operator, and I want you to know I disagree with everything you said," protested the visitor.

"I'm glad to hear that," replied Smathers.

"You're glad to hear that I disagree with you?" demanded the coal man.

"No, I'm glad to hear you're from Kentucky," retorted the Florida senator as he departed.

DORIS FLESON

Guaranteed Annual Wage To Be Issue

WASHINGTON — An issue its taking shape in Detroit which will profoundly affect the 1956 presidential campaign although politicians will have little or no control over it.

It is the demand of the CIO automobile workers for a guaranteed annual wage. The issue will be joined when President Walter P. Reuther of the union formally presents his demands to General Motors May 29 next and to the Ford Motor Company June 1 next.

If Reuther achieves the principle of the guaranteed annual wage, no matter in how attenuated a form, an economic revolution is in prospect. If he does not and he refuses to settle for less, as he now promises, a bitter industrial conflict may ensue, as in 1937, which could, again as in 1937, produce a political revolution of sorts.

The automotive industry accounts for roughly one-third of the material, time and effort expended annually to keep the U.S. industrial machine in motion. This being so, the wide impact of the industry's labor policies is self-evident.

Of his guaranteed annual wage proposal, Reuther says: "We are irrevocably committed to the principle that our workers are morally and economically entitled to a year-round wage."

His determination to achieve it accounts in part for his willingness as CIO president to approve the AFL-CIO merger. He was moved to concentrate on it now for two major reasons.

The union feels that its guaranteed annual wage is the necessary corollary to automation, helping both to control it and insure that the workers get a fair share of its benefits.

The other is the dramatic competitive struggle between Ford and General Motors for first place in the industry. The union believes that at least one of these giants will feel it must have peace no matter what the price.

Detroit is betting that Henry Ford will yield, and not altogether because of his fight to wrest first place from his rival. Ford is described as having become deeply committed to the social justice principles of the Catholic Church to which he became a convert on his marriage to the daughter of one of the great New York Catholic families. Stories have circulated — but are denied — that Ford already instituted inquiries about the financing that the wage plan would entail.

The forecasters differ about what will happen in Detroit. The Research Institute of America is advising its 30,000 member business concerns that Reuther will get a modified version of his proposal. They suggest a possible first step of 40 weeks pay given to perhaps 70 per cent of employees.

It has been President Eisenhower's — and the country's — good fortune not to be plagued with violent industrial disputes having stubborn men on both sides. The guaranteed wage issue could change that and the 1956 outlook as well.

No Speeding On This Old Bridge

The dentists are edging up on the sonic barrier.

This seems to be a fair deduction from recent reports in the official publication of the American Dental Association, wherein one of the dental gentlemen urged his fellow toilers to rev up their drills from 265 to 800 miles an hour.

Of course the proposal really deals with revolutions per minute rather than miles per hour. This is probably just as well, since very few people have mouths big enough to get up that much speed on a straightaway. No matter how it is phrased, though, the idea is to speed things up.

I just hope that the modern mania for faster things, like ships, automobiles, airplanes and Nevada divorces, is not going to stampede the dentists into something their patients will be sorry for. My own mouth is built on the old style, with improperly banked curves on the back stretch. A bad skid along about there would play the very dickens with my tonsil stumps, and — bunnies though they may be — I am quite attached to them.

It should be mentioned, in a spirit of fairness, that the new high speed drilling has been successfully applied in the Army and elsewhere, along with a squirt-gun sort of attachment which pokes a continuous set of water at both the drill and the tooth. Enthusiasts maintain that it gets the job over with quicker and makes the patient happy.

Speaking personally, I think that anyone who seriously maintains that he is happy in a dentist's chair ought to take a quick count of his marbles. My own dentist is a very nice guy, and one who is on intimate terms with every tooth in my mouth. He is, in fact, quite fond of them — he hates to see one go almost as badly as I do.

I am downright happy to see him any time at a dinner party, a baseball game or some place like that. As a purely intellectual thing, I am happy even about his professional skill. Unfortunately, my teeth are not intellectual. They are more on the primitive side. They cringe.

This cringing has been very successful until now. You take a tooth which is a good cringer, and it can pretty well hold its own against an old 265-mile-per hour drill. Throw it in against an 800 m.p.h. pob, though, and its reflexes are apt to be too slow. A drill with a good long bit on it could get clear down to your toenails before you had time to say "Aargh!" It isn't sporting.

The real crisis is bound to be just over the next molar, and will undoubtedly come when, having successfully tripled his speed without adverse reaction, some dentist determines to go after the sonic barrier. This is theoretically possible even with the present drills, I believe.

The thing is, as the Air Force has discovered, that a tremendous explosion, almost like a bomb blast, occurs at the instant of breaking through the sonic wall, or sound barrier. Dentistry had better keep this in mind, or there will be a lot of patients blowing their tops.

Personally, I'm going to have a small sign made to fit the roof of my mouth: "Weak bridge, go slow."

Plan Reassuring Atom Policy

WASHINGTON — A strenuous effort is going on behind the scenes here to try to get agreement on a new and dramatic move in the atomic fields in anticipation of the barrage of anti-American propaganda that will be laid down at the Afro-Asian conference in Indonesia next month.

Two proposals are being considered at the highest level. The objective is to emphasize American concern over the effects of nuclear weapons and to dramatize the desire to share peacetime uses of the atom as widely as possible.

Proposal No. 1 is for American initiative to get approval of a United Nations commission for a study of the effects of fallout of radioactive material in the aftermath of explosion of a hydrogen weapon. Such a commission also might be empowered to appraise the consequences of radioactivity currently in the atmosphere as the result of the tests of atomic hydrogen weapons by the Soviet Union, Great Britain and the United States.

Proposal No. 2 is for American leadership outside the U.N. in the first steps essential to harness the peaceful atom in friendly countries of Asia. This might take the form of a commission of American atomic experts who would visit Asia for a co-operative survey of the potentialities of power reactors in areas where fuels are scarce and costly and hydroelectric is unavailable.

It is increasingly evident that Red China's delegates to the Indonesian conference will seek to propagandize the threat of nuclear warfare launched by the United States. This has a great scare effect among Asian neutralists and even in supposedly friendly countries such as Japan.

The official government newspaper Izvestia in Moscow has just denounced the atom-for-peace plan that President Eisenhower put before the U.N. in December of 1953. Izvestia called the plan a propaganda screen covering an American effort to obtain control of atomic materials everywhere in the world.

This line is believed to be the one that will be taken at the conference at which Asian and African powers will meet, with no representative of any western power attending. Nations friendly to the West, such as Pakistan, the Philippines and Thailand, will speak out against the Communist and fellow-traveling effort to brand the United States as an aggressor and warmonger.

This effort will be linked, it is believed here, to American policy on Formosa and the fears of an Asian war. There is, in fact, a growing belief that the conference in Indonesia will be directly tied in to the conflict over Formosa and the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

The Red regime in Peiping goes right on repeating its intention of attacking Formosa this year. This may, of course, be merely empty bluff. But those who take the threat seriously see a relationship to the conference as follows:

Red China will not launch an attack on a scale that would bring American intervention prior to the meeting that begins April 18. The major propaganda line will be dedicated to convincing Asians and Africans that America means to use nuclear weapons at will against the defenseless masses in Asian cities. Then against the background of this propaganda buildup, the Communists will attack in force and thereby presumably bring American intervention.

The use of atomic weapons, even though they were tactical weapons aimed at specific military formations and military targets, would be exploited to the fullest. The Chinese Communists might even be willing to accept a minor military defeat in order to gain the kind of propaganda advantage which, in their belief, would alienate many now wavering between East and West.

The repercussions undoubtedly would be great even though American officials have given clear warning that an attack by Red China would necessitate American use of tactical atomic weapons. It takes no crystal ball to imagine the reaction in India to reports out of China, exaggerated and inflammatory as they would be, following an atomic attack. There would be repercussions in Europe, too. Fear of the hydrogen bomb, related to the use of American bases in Britain by the Strategic Air Command, is an issue in British politics. European neutralists have constantly exploited the same theme.

These considerations give a sense of urgency to proposals that will advertise to the world America's desire to share the atom for peace and economic development. Yet, the usual foot-dragging caution has prevailed to a great extent in the endless discussion on what steps should be taken. It is likely that this same caution may in the end nullify all efforts to put American policy in a more generous light. And that would, unhappily enough, leave the propaganda field open to America's enemies at the forthcoming conference.

Turn Backward

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Press reports say that the ax will be applied to REA and FHA loans. But it is some years late. Government and private loans have caused artificial prosperity. The results are higher prices for everything the people use draining their earnings and savings until many people are down to bed rock and demanding more from someone so they can survive.

The big thinkers haven't kept pace with business principles and the stopping point is now at hand. The government should go one step further and get out of all business. Let the people think and do for themselves and practice self reliance as we did when we developed this country and had it on a cash basis as it was in 1912.

ON THE LINE

NEW YORK (INS)—St. Patrick, one of the most successful missionaries of all time, was a Briton born 1,570 years ago at Bannavem Taberniae. Not even Jim Farley has ever been able to find the place.

His family was Christian and honorary citizens of Rome, of which Britain was a province, indicating their educational standing. Kidnapped by Irish marauders when he was 16, Patrick was taken to Ireland as a slave and worked as a herdsman in what is now County Antrim until 22. Then he escaped, reached Gaul, France, entered a monastery, and returned home to Britain about 413 A.D.

"Voices" were directing him now, he later revealed. He returned to Gaul, studied at Auxerre for 12 years, and went back to Ireland as a bishop. He was a brave man. He tackled the pagan priests who quartered at Tara, won his first converts among hairy chieftains with a contempt for human life, and then worked on clan after clan after clan until all Ireland was what it is not today—united.

Few Souls

Missionaries had preceded Patrick to Ireland but had harvested few souls. Patrick's secret was that he understood the country and the people. In aiding the kings and chieftains to codify the laws of the land he borrowed heavily from traditional and familiar clan laws—striking out the more brutal codes, such as slavery, as he went.

He must have been a man of tremendous personality and drive, but the sculptors and painters who chose him made a mystic of him. Which isn't as bad as what the British did to his burial shrine and his bones when they destroyed Downpatrick in 1539.

The existence of even a partitioned Ireland today is a tribute to its determined men and women. For generations before Patrick, the clans almost exterminated one another. No scholar knows how many times the island was subjected to invasion, or why the Romans, who held Britain for 400 years, never got around to taking Ireland, too.

Brian Boru

Norsemen battered Irish coasts for 200 years, leading up to the year 1000. Brian Boru finally sent them packing for once and all at Clontarf in 1014.

Ireland was independent for 150 years after that but stumbled from lack of a central power. Pope Adrian IV, an Englishman, named Henry II as ruler of Ireland. The people picked up stones and knouts. They're still fighting, as St. Patrick's Day parades from Dublin to San Francisco will attest.

To get where it is today, the Republic of Ireland underwent centuries of hardship which would have enflamed the United Nations had it then existed. Henry II and his strong man, Richard De Clare, Earl of Pembroke, appropriated countless lands, parcelled them among friends or sold them. The era of the "absentee landlord" began. The people fought back with hosts of brush-fire rebellions. They were aided temporarily by the invasion of Edward Bruce in 1315. The British held a beachhead and in time expanded. Henry VIII ruthlessly brought all the country under his control; Ireland became a Protestant country with penal laws against Catholics.

One rebellion during the English civil wars of the 1640s resulted in the loss of 600,000 lives. Oliver Cromwell crushed that one with a massacre of the people of Drogheda. The American revolution stimulated new demands for a separate parliament, an endless battle which reached an important turn in 1800 when Pitt abolished the Irish Parliament and ruled that Ireland could send representatives to the British counterpart.

Potato Blight

Daniel O'Connell led the fight that led to the Catholic Emancipation Act of 1829. But the worst was yet to come: The great potato blight, or famine. In 1840, when it struck, Ireland was a country of 8,500,000. (Today it is half that). Between 1846 and 1851, some one million Irish people died of starvation, and over approximately that same period more than 1,500,000 left the country—most of them headed for New York, though South America and Australia got its share.

Sick and emaciated, those who stayed behind continued to fight for independence. Thousands died in the Sinn Fein rebellions, not resolved until the meetings between Lloyd George and Eamon De Valera (born in Brooklyn of Spanish father and Irish mother) in 1921. Their Irish Free State was replaced on April 18, 1949 (33rd anniversary of the bloody Easter Rebellion) by the Republic of Ireland. When the Russians stop blackballing Ireland in U.N. and the Republic becomes a member, we'll hear more about the separated counties Antrim, Down, Armagh, Fermanagh, Tyrone and Londonderry. Much more.

That, you may sleep on, me laddybucko.

Cancer Claims Life Of Little Katrina Steinmetz, York

N.Y. Medics Unable To Aid DP Youngster

YORK, Neb. (P)—Little Katrina Steinmetz died Tuesday.

Death came to the 2 year old daughter of a Yugoslavia family of displaced persons as she slept at a York hospital where she had been taken Friday.

The little girl was the victim of cancer. A tumor developed in her left eye, resulting in the loss of her sight after five months. Surgery and medical treatment failed to save the right eye and for months the little girl lived in darkness.

Public interest in the case developed early this year and a fund of $1,300 was raised to send the child to New York City for treatment by specialists. They said nothing could be done for her.

Besides her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Steinmetz, Katrina is survived by three sisters and two brothers.

Officials Probe Cause Of Fire; Loss Unknown

Lincoln Star Special

STEELE CITY, Neb.—Investigation into the cause of the blaze destroying the 15,000-bushel Co-operative Farmers Elevator continued Tuesday with officials from the state fire marshal's office and Jefferson County Sheriff Deyo Hughes on hand.

No estimate of the loss has as yet been made, according to the owners, Paul S. Clark and Sons.

The flames broke out about midnight Monday and within two hours the elevator was leveled. Between 250 and 300 men fought the blaze and kept the wind-fanned flames from spreading to nearby business places.

Water Shortage
A shortage of water hampered Diller and Fairbury firemen together with scores of volunteers who battled the fire. Only well and spring water was available in Steele City.

Both the elevator and a feed shed were destroyed. The elevator contents included 7,500 bushels of corn, 500 bushels of wheat, 95,000 pounds of milo and several thousand dollars worth of feed and concentrate, Clark disclosed.

Nurse Discovers Blaze
The fire was discovered by Mrs. I. N. Morgan, head nurse at the Morgan Hospital one-half block from the elevator.

C. A. Darling, Steele City's mayor and operator of a general store and locker plant across the street from the elevator, watched the flames anxiously lest the strong north wind should have shifted to the west. Mrs. Darling prepared coffee and handed out doughnuts to the fire-fighters.

Residents said the fire was the worst the town has seen since the Steele City Hotel burned down about 25 years ago.

Wheat Fields Damaged By High Winds

State Needs A General Rain; Oats, Barley Seeding Starts

High winds last week didn't do Nebraska's winter wheat any good, government crop observers indicated Tuesday.

Some damage to the crop was reported from several counties in the western third of the state, according to the state-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

"It appears," the agency's weekly review noted, "this damage was confined largely to the wheat on light soils and wheat that did not get a good start last fall."

Wheat in the eastern two-thirds of the state escaped damage, and most of the dust that swirled about was blown in from western Nebraska and adjoining states, the report said.

A good general rain would help all of Nebraska and aid any damaged wheat plots in western Nebraska to recover.

While precipitation was above normal for the first two months of the year, there has not been enough moisture to penetrate deeply into the soil. Dry, windy weather has dried the topsoil and dry weather last fall and heavy growth exhausted much of the moisture in the top 18-24 inches of soil, especially in the western third of the state, the agency said.

Symphony Group Snubs Music Hall In Omaha City Auditorium

OMAHA (AP)—The Omaha Symphony has snubbed the music hall in Omaha's newly completed city auditorium.

Cecil Slocum, manager of the orchestra, said the board had voted to remain at Joslyn Memorial Auditorium for at least another year.

"We are not happy with the music hall set-up," Slocum said. "The acoustics are poor and stage lighting needs to be improved."

The symphony orchestra, with its five concerts a season, was expected to be a big revenue provider for the music hall.

Commission member William Loring said the auditorium commission is aware of a sound problem, but a shell for the stage, which would bounce sound into the hall, was one of the items omitted when the commission ran out of money. He estimated such a shell would cost about $6,000 and it won't be bought until the auditorium is able to operate at a profit.

Auditorium manager Jack Baumer said that "only the experts" would notice sound troubles.

Joe Demands New Peress Probe Be Broadened To Explore 'Conspiracy'

McCarthy Raises 'Point Of Order'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another investigation of the Peress case opened Tuesday and Sen. McCarthy promptly demanded it be broadened to explore what he termed a big "conspiracy" aimed partly at him.

He said the probe ought to reach as high as the White House.

Only a few minutes elapsed in the fourth inquiry to date into the promotion and honorable discharge of Army dentist Irving Peress before it took on aspects of the tumultuous Army-McCarthy hearings last spring.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Investigations subcommittee started with an explanation of the proceedings and a charge that the Army had once offered but then pulled back some pertinent information.

'Point Of Order'

McCarthy raised the familiar "point of order" to interject a comment. He suggested the investigation try to determine why President Eisenhower issued "a black-out order" silencing administration officials on a meeting in January, 1954.

This was the same gathering which generated bitter argument at the McCarthy-Army hearings. It preceded charges by Secretary of the Army Stevens and former Army Counsel John Adams that McCarthy and his top aids sought preferential treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine. McCarthy responded with an accusation that the Army wanted to use Schine as a "hostage" to check McCarthy's hunt for Reds in the Army. Schine formerly had been an unpaid consultant to the Senate Investigations unit which McCarthy then headed.

The stormy hearings ensued from those cross-charges. At one point President Eisenhower said officials of the executive branch should not be forced to disclose their private conversations.

'Conspired'

McCarthy insisted Tuesday that those attending the January meeting "successfully conspired" to impede a full investigation of the Peress case and acted to instigate "an investigation of McCarthy." He again named Atty. Gen. Brownell, U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Sherman Adams, a presidential assistant, as among those at the meeting.

Alluding to what he labeled the President's "blackout order," McCarthy asked Wilbert M. Brucker, Defense Department general counsel, about any chance of "the curtain being lowered" during the current hearings.

"Senator," Brucker said, "there's been no curtain lowered."

Some 25 witnesses have been arranged for the hearings. McClellan said the inquiry was ordered to learn why the Army promoted Peress to major and then honorably discharged him in February, 1954. He added this apparently was done "in disregard" of a "considerable amount of derogatory information" against Peress.

McCarthy has called Peress a "Fifth Amendment Communist." The Brooklyn, N. Y., dentist, just prior to his discharge, refused to answer questions about communist affiliations before McCarthy's subcommittee.

'Free Man Doesn't Mind Rain'

That was John David Provoo's reaction to the rain as he walked out of jail in Baltimore a free man for the first time in nearly six years. The 37-year-old former Army sergeant charged with treason while a prisoner of the Japanese in World War II, won his release on technical grounds when a federal judge ruled Provoo had been denied his constitutional right to a speedy trial. (AP Wirephoto)

Provoo Hopes For Service Again In U.S. Army Uniform

BALTIMORE (INS)—John David Provoo, now a free man after having once been sentenced to life imprisonment for treason, said Tuesday he will re-enlist in the Army "if they'll have me."

The 37-year-old ex-sergeant who won freedom when Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen ruled that Provoo had been denied his constitutional rights to a speedy trial described himself as a "re-dedicated man" and asserted he had never done injury to the United States.

Provoo talked with newsmen while awaiting a formal release order from Judge Thomsen, whose surprise ruling Monday came after a month of hearings and deliberation.

The former San Francisco bank clerk was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment Feb. 11, 1953, in New York City, on four counts of aiding the Japanese after he was captured in the Philippines in 1942.

Provoo said he was grateful to be "vindicated on constitutional grounds," but added: "I am sorry that I was not exonerated of the treason charge, as I am confident I would have been if I had been tried under the Articles of War."

State Expected To Escape Chinch Bug Infestation

Chinch bugs aren't expected to give Nebraska farmers much trouble this year, a University of Nebraska entomologist said Tuesday.

The insect pests which damage corn, sorghum and small grains, will be no more of a problem this year than they were last year, it was said.

Surveys in Nebraska indicate no large over-wintering population of the bugs, according to Robert Roselle. There might be isolated cases of infestation in east central Nebraska but these are not expected to be extremely damaging. Department of agriculture entomologists say scattered, locally severe, or very severe infestations may be expected in northeastern Arkansas, east central Illinois, east central Kansas, northern Missouri and northeastern Oklahoma.

Legislature Asked To Protest Commie Canned Ham Flow

The Nebraska Legislature has been asked to protest to Congress against importation of canned hams into the United States from Communist-dominated countries such as Poland.

The resolution, signed by Sens. Tvrdek of Omaha, Aufenkamp of Julian and Ruhnke of Plymouth, will be considered later this week.

Tvrdek represents the South Omaha district where the packing plants are located. Aufenkamp and Ruhnke are farmers.

The resolution asserts importation of canned hams from Poland has increased 55 per cent in recent months and now runs at the rate of 20 million pounds a year.

Annual Lancaster Service Pacts Set

The Lancaster County Board has approved annual service contracts covering the maintenance of electrical office equipment in the Courthouse and department of public welfare.

Estimated cost of the contracts with manufacturers is $2,195, compared with $1,965 spent for repairs during 1954, according to a study.

However, Commissioner Del Lienemann estimated an additional saving of $500 to $1,000 annually in depreciation costs, pointing out quarterly inspections and servicing would increase the life of machines from four to eight years.

A master control index for the maintenance and inspection of machines will be kept by the commissioner's office.

The service would begin April 1, according to board plans.

AROUND THE TOWN

WE'RE off to a good start and the race is between space and us—But we want to tell you that the William Aitkens—Mr. and Mrs.—are back in town after a two weeks holiday at Point Clear, Ala. En route home Mr. and Mrs. Aitken stopped in Chicago for a visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. L. Greer, Jr., and their son, Billy.

KKG Mothers Present Panel

The members of the Kappa Gamma Mothers' Club will meet on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the chapter house. The program will be a panel composed of American Field Service students. The group will include Tom Fisher and Miss Nan Carlson, who studied abroad last summer; John Hartnett of England; Dieter Freeze, Germany, and Toni Di Pietro, Italy, who are spending the year in the States under the American Field Service plan.

Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Gerald Desmond and Mrs. Clarence Mahn.

popular rendezvous for Lincoln people these days—At the same time Mr. and Mrs. Aitken were there so were numerous other Lincoln people—Mr. and Mrs. Wardner Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Olson, for example—

AND the Alabama resort also was visited by Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Talbot who are just home from the south. Mr. and Mrs. Talbot went first to New Orleans, and spent several days at Point Clear en route home.

Extension Club Holds Meeting

The members of the Tea Time Extension Club held their March meeting at the home of Mrs. A. L. Vest where the lesson on "Broiler Meals" was presented by Mrs. A. L. Vest and Mrs. Lydia Vest.

Following the lesson and luncheon a short business meeting was held, and Mrs. Philip Knaub was introduced as a new member.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Al Knaub on April 14.

BUT that doesn't close the chapter on Point Clear—We hear that Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Drake are leaving Saturday or Sunday for the popular Alabama spot—And we also learned that Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Wilson will be going south—as far as Point Clear, sometime next week.

IT seems that Miss Maizie Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Cox, who is attending Agnes Scott College in Decatur, Ga., will not be home for Easter—Miss Cox's vacation begins this evening and she will go to Beltsville, Md., where she will be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Rhoades of Lincoln, who are spending Dr. Rhoades' nine months leave of absence in Beltsville—and where she also will visit a former Northeast High School classmate, Miss Arlis Reitz, now a student at the University of Maryland.

SPEAKING of the school crowd and spring holidays—Understand that Miss Nancy Aitken will be arriving from Wellesley College on Sunday, April 3, to spend the Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William I. Aitken.

THEN we learned that Miss Carolyn Schimmel, a student at the University of Missouri, will be coming home on April 7, to be the spring vacation guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Q. Schimmel.

They're Honolulu Bound

It's just a matter of days now until Mrs. Gene Burcham and her four months-old daughter, Deborah Lynn, plane off to Honolulu. The travelers fly first to San Francisco where they will spend a day or two before enplaning again for Hawaii.

There's plenty of excitement about the trip—not only in Lincoln, but also at Pearl Harbor where Mr. Burcham is stationed—Deborah Lynn will be meeting her father for the first time so, of course, it will be Mr. Burcham's first glimpse of his daughter.

Bride On Tuesday

Arrangements of yellow gladioli, combined with acacia, white stock and lighted cathedral candles in seven - branched holders appointed the chancel of the Trinity Methodist Church for the wedding of Miss Jewel Arlene Hide, daughter of Mrs. Mildred Hide, and Charles M. Claytor, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Harold Claytor of Walton, which was March 15. Three hundred guests were present for the reading of the lines by the Rev. Vance Rogers, and Charles Tritt of Doane College, Crete, played the wedding music and also accompanied the vocal soloist, Donald Inghram.

Floor-length frocks of net-over-taffeta were chosen for the identically styled costumes of the attendants including Miss Sherry Ann Snider, the maid of honor, who appeared in jonquil yellow; Miss Marilyn Jo Gunn and Miss Roma Schrepf, the bridesmaids, who were in the peacock blue shade. Under short-sleeved bolero jackets the strapless bodices were snugly fitted, and the wide skirts and brief, ruffled net aprons appliqued in a motif of daisies. Miss Snider carried a bouquet of white carnations tinged with blue, and the maids carried the white carnations touched with yellow. Miss Beverly Besack of Beatrice, and Mrs. Hotchkiss, wearing white satin choir robes, lighted the candles and Janet Humphill of Beatrice was the flower girl. Timothy Theel of Fremont was the ringbearer.

Burton Claytor of Walton served his brother as best man, and and seating the guests were Clayton Rock, Jr., Ephraim Hixson, Jr., William Thoman and Wayne Ruliffson.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of white chantilly lace and tulle over satin. The long - sleeved bodice of lace, closed with minute self-fabric buttons, was designed with a portrait neckline contoured with natural scalloped lace, and the lace was repeated to over-lay the tulle skirt which was given added bouffancy by a back panel of tulle ruffles which bordered the hem of the gown and extended into a circular train. A half - bonnet of pleated tulle, edged with pearls, held to the head her double - tiered veil of imported illusion, and she carried a white Bible marked with white orchids.

Following a reception, held in the Great Hall, Mr. Claytor and his bride left for a southern honeymoon trip and upon their return will reside at 4501 St. Paul. For traveling Mrs. Claytor wore a navy and red plaid suit, with red accessories.

"But I must give credit where it is due, and that is to the Lincoln School of Commerce. Through their unceasing efforts of superior teaching ability, I was able to complete the course. Legislature Recommends New Blind School Dormitory

The Legislature by voice vote Tuesday accepted a Public Health Committee report in which a new dormitory for the State School for the Blind at Nebraska City is recommended.

This action leaves it up to the Board of Control to carry out the recommendation.

The report also urges the board to investigate the feasibility of building a swimming pool and other recreational facilities at the school.

The board could finance the proposed projects out of its share of the revenue from the 1.1 mill building fund levy.

The Public Health Committee submitted its recommendations for improvements at the Nebraska City institution after killing three bills proposing to move the school to another location.

Proposed sites were Crete, Kearney and Omaha.

Tuesday's action on the Public

Health Committee report apparently does not settle the issue for the Legislature, however.

Study Proposed

Sen. McGinley of Ogallala Tuesday introduced a resolution calling for a study of the possibility of providing additional facilities for instruction of the blind in Nebraska.

The resolution was not debated formally Tuesday, but McGinley disclosed during discussion of the Public Health Committee report that he was thinking of the possibility of a special room for blind students at some school in the central or western part of the state.

Agitation to move the school from Nebraska City originated with parents of blind children in Central and western Nebraska who complained of the distance from their homes to Nebraska City.

McGinley's new resolution says "existing facilities make it impossible or impracticable for many blind children of the state to be served and still maintain for them a proper home and family relationship."

"The fact is," he commented, "a considerable number of children should be considered who are not getting training, due to the matter of location."

McGinley proposes setting up a nine-member committee to study his latest proposal and report back within 45 days. Two members would come from each congressional district and one from the state at large.

The Ogallala senator was author of the first resolution calling for the study by the public Health Committee. He also introduced the bill to move the school to Kearney.

NU Hospital Bill Reported Out

The Legislature's miscellaneous appropriations Committee reported favorably on a bill affecting the University of Nebraska Hospital in Omaha despite some doubts expressed by the introducer of the measure.

LB 333 would repeal the law charging the counties $4 per patient sent to the hospital who is unable to pay for himself.

Sen. Dwight Burney of Hartington, introducer of the bill and a committee member, asked that the bill be held until the budget committee determines the appropriation for the hospital.

His request came after University of Nebraska Business Manager John Selleck said $300,000 would have to be added to the University's budget request if the bill is passed.

"I would not want to be responsible for shorting the funds for the University Hospital," Burney said. "I would want to be sure the University Hospital would get an extra $300,000 to make up what it would lose if this bill passed."

He testified that the reason for the legislation is a decrease in the number of patients at the hospital since the passage of the bill, apparently because many counties can take care of welfare cases more economically at home.

"Yet," said Burney, "we need a good variety of patients for our young doctors in the University Medical College to work with."

Solons Debate Higher Standards For Nurses

The Legislature Tuesday debated the question of higher prescribed standards for practical nurses but adjourned for the day before taking action.

Sen. Otto of Kearney said the profession would not be in competition with registered nurses, "but would assist registered nurses."

If the bill, LB 460, were to become law, practical nurses would be entitled to use the letters, "L. P.N." after their name, indicating "licensed practical nurse."

Propose Curbs On Building Near Airports

A bill giving the State Aeronautics Department power to regulate construction within a limited distance of airports was introduced in the Legislature Tuesday.

Another bill introduced Tuesday would relieve motor carriers of liability for penalties for having hauled freight for the federal government at a special reduced rate during the past 13 years.

Existing law permits carriers to give reduced rates to the state and its governmental sub-divisions. During World War II and subsequent years, Sen. Lee of Fremont explained, the carriers gave the federal government similar rate concessions.

Full Collection Required
But because the present statute does not specifically include the federal government in the list, the carriers would be obliged under a recent Railway Commission decision to try to collect the full commercial rate.

Lee said LB 543, introduced Tuesday, would relieve the carriers of the need to try to collect the additional money from the government. The carriers did little or no hauling within Nebraska for the federal government until establishment of the ordnance installations at Mead, Grand Island, Hastings and Sidney.

A third bill introduced Tuesday would redefine sex psychopath in an existing law.

All three bills were introduced by committees with consent of the Legislature.

The deadline for introduction of bills by individual legislators was Jan. 31.

Mill Levy For Flood Control Authorized

A one-fourth mill levy by counties for flood control measures was authorized by the Legislature Tuesday.

The bill was introduced by Sens. Thompson of McCook and Hoffmeister of Imperial.

The complete list of bills passed Tuesday:

LB 21, Thompson, Hoffmeister, Authorizing counties to levy up to one-fourth mill for flood control, 42-0.

LB 336, Moulton, Larkin, Klaver, Permitting salaries of deputies in county offices to be fixed by county board whenever circumstances require it, 43-0.

LB 34, Fenske, Kotone, McGinley, Cole, Increasing power of court to approve oil pipeline and utilization contracts, 43-0.

LB 168, Beaver, Kotone, Enabling cities and villages to issue water and aviation field bonds in same manner as they are permitted to issue paving, sewer, and other bonds, Emergency, 43-0.

Adams To Attempt Revival Of FEB Bill

State Sen. John Adams Sr. of Omaha says that he will try to revive the Fair employment practices bill in its amended form "sometime this week."

The bill was killed by a 5 to 4 vote of the Legislature's Labor Committee.

However, the committee first amended it to remove jail sentences and fines as penalties for disregarding prohibitions against racial and religious discrimination by employers.

Adams was optimistic about his chances to raise the bill on the floor but added that he is "surprised and disappointed" about the committee's failure to report favorably on the measure.

"Something apparently went wrong," he said.

New Competitor For Tom's Services

Cage Sport May Lose Gola To Baseball

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Basketball's NBA and AAU have a new competitor for the services of LaSalle College's super-star, Tom Gola—baseball.

The Philadelphia Phillies, Cincinnati Reds, Kansas City Athletics and New York Yankees reportedly are interested in the 6-7, three-time All-American. And Tom is interested in them.

"Sounds good," he said, when told of the possible baseball bids for his services.

Needs Practice

"I've played some softball lately and a little baseball with Incarnation Catholic Club but I'd need a lot of practice. I played the outfield and first base.

"But how'd this all come up," he asked.

Well, it's like this: Jocko Collins, supervisor of referees of the National Basketball Assn. and also a scout for the Phillies, was told by a top club official to see if Gola was interested in working out with the National League club.

"I have never seen the boy play—school, college or independent. But last week I was told by a top official on the ball club to see if Tommy is interested in working out with us," Collins said.

Phillie Workout

"So, when he is through with basketball this season, I will ask him if he cares to work out with us during a home stand at Connie Mack Stadium in May.

"If that's okay with him, we would just let him get acclimated to baseball. Then he gets married in June and leaves right away for South America for nearly two months.

"He'll be back in town for one of our late home stands and he could work out again.

"We'll have men who are good judges of raw baseball talent watching him and see what they think of him. If they think it's worth talking contract to him, we'll do it. If not, we'll skip the whole thing," Collins concluded.

High School Ball

Gola hasn't played baseball since his sophomore year in high school. His coach, Harry Wolter, believes Tom had the makings, at one time, of a baseball star.

"I always had an idea he would have become a standout. He could hit the long ball but he didn't hit it often enough. I think with proper coaching he would have been able to hit consistently," Wolter said.

Wolter said he thinks the 22-year-old Gola could develop into a pretty fair baseball player with the proper training.

Should Gola ever turn to baseball with the Phillies, Collins would really have a headache. He's picturing himself telling his NBA boss, Maurice Podoloff, "I just signed Tom Gola, for baseball."

Horan got going in the second half and rang up a 29-point total while Uhl, benched for more than 15 minutes, returned to toss in five field goals in the closing minutes.

The first game was a struggle between two big stars and two tight defenses. In the long run it was St. Francis' zone defense that paid off, although Tom Heinsohn, the Holy Cross workhorse, had the edge over the Frankies' Maurice Stokes in the scoring.

Heinsohn, who averaged more than 23 points a game during the regular season, turned in a superb performance under the basket and scored 23 points to Stokes' 21. But a certain timidity about long-range shooting in the first half proved costly to the defending champions.

St. Francis, with Stokes hitting on important shots, pulled into an 8-point lead in the first half before the Crusaders began hitting from the outside. Then, just when it appeared the little Pennsylvania school was headed for a second round defeat, the Frankies pulled together in the last seven minutes and regained the lead.

Bill Skowron, who seems to be nailing down a regular job as Yankee first baseman, belted successive doubles in his first three times at bat to lead the victors' 11-hit attack.

Tom Casagrande, a $40,000 bonus baby from Fordham University, started for the Phils and was the losing pitcher. He was scored on in each of his three innings.

Cards Tip Tigers For Second In Row

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals scored three runs off rookie Bob Cruise in the seventh inning for a 5-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers in an exhibition game at Henley Field Tuesday.

The Tigers dropped their second straight game to the National League club. The Cards won 3-1 at St. Petersburg Monday.

The Cardinals' left fielder, Rip Repulski, homered over the left field fence with two out in the sixth inning to tie the score at 2-2. In the third, Repulski doubled and scored on Al Kaline's fumble.

The Tigers had gone ahead in the fourth on Ferris Fain's double and Jay Porter's home run.

Rally By Redlegs Beats Pittsburgh

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Six walks and an error helped the Cincinnati Redlegs score seven runs in the last two innings Tuesday to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates 9-7 in an exhibition game.

Dick Littlefield took over the Pirate pitching chores in the seventh but issued a two-base hit and two walks in the eighth to start the Redleg rally.

Domingo Resello started the ninth for the Pirates but proved wild. He gave up two walks and a hit to permit one run. Gene Freese's wild throw to the plate let the insurance run in.

St. Francis Dayton foe For NIT

Quarterfinals: St. Francis (Pa.) 68, Dayton 97; Holy Cross 61, St. Louis 84

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—St. Francis (Pa.), the new pet of New York basketball fans, upset defending champion Holy Cross 68-64 and second-seeded Dayton University overcame first-half jitters to whip St. Louis 97-81 in the second set of quarter-finals of the National Invitation Tournament Tuesday night.

Dayton will meet St. Francis and top-seeded Duquesne will face Cincinnati in the semifinals Thursday. The Dukes and Cincinnati earned their places Monday.

St. Louis, Missouri Valley Conference co-champion which set a bunch of Madison Square Garden records in a 110-103 victory over Connecticut Saturday, came up with an odd slow-down offensive formation upset.

Facing 7-foot Bill Uhl and 6-8 Johnny Horan, St. Louis Coach Eddie Hickey produced a formation he uses against tall men, putting two players on each side of the foul lane and one to hold the ball out. It confused Dayton's Flyers quite a bit and stopped the tall men temporarily. But Dayton overcame the difficulty and won handily.

Mullen, second-best St. Francis scorer behind the Dons' All-American 6-10 Bill Russell, sprained his ankle in Saturday's 57-36 squeak past Oregon State.

Emphasizing the tremendous rebounding finesse of Russell, Blake said the great Dons' player, with only informal track practice, has cleared 6 feet, 7 1/2 inches in the high jump.

Despite the scare by Oregon State and its only loss in 27 games this season to UCLA, St. Francis regards West Texas State as the toughest foe it played, according to Blake.

San Francisco whipped West Texas State 89-66 in the first round of the Far Western NCAA playoffs, but Blake said the Texan club was the fastest and most talented team faced by the Dons.

Blake explained the Dons really caught fire after a single lineup change following the loss to UCLA in the third game of the season. After this 47-40 setback, Hal Perry was moved into a regular guard spot.

Now Perry and K. C. Jones are rated two of the quickest guards in college basketball, helping the towering Russell in making San Francisco the nation's best defensive team with an average yield of only 51.7 points.

There will be no national television of the meet at the Kansas City Municipal Auditorium.

Ethison To Face Argentine Rocca

An accident which will prevent Greek champion Chris Tolos from rassing Argentine Rocca in Lincoln tonight has given rough Ronnie Ethison something he always wanted—a chance at the agile Argentine.

James Barnett, Tolos' handler, informed Promoter Adam Krieger Tuesday that the Greek star was injured Monday night and would not be able to rattle Wednesday. Krieger searched eagerly Tuesday afternoon for a substitute and came up with a worthy opponent for Rocca in Ethison.

Ethison withdrew from a feature spot on a Kansas card to take on Rocca. The St. Joseph, Mo. native is, like Rocca, a TV star.

The semiwindup and opening events will remain the same. Tonight's program starts at 8:30 p.m. when Ray Samara and Harry Lewis meet in a one-fall match. Joe Dusek is slated to go two falls out of three with Mike DiBiase.

Kid Gavilan, Bobby Dykes Meet Tonight

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Ex-welterweight champion Kid Gavilan of Havana and Bobby Dykes of Miami, a pair of fighters who cannot afford another loss if they are to stay in top boxing company, collide tonight in a televised 10-round outdoor event at Miami Stadium.

The rangy Miami fighter has been training hard for the bout and may be even money at the 9 p.m. CST starting time.

"I feel I can lick him," Dykes said. "I won't predict a knockout but if the opportunity presents itself I'll take advantage of it."

Although they are both veterans, the mandatory eight-count rule will be in effect and a fighter getting knocked down three times in any one round will lose on a technical knockout.

Gavilan won a split decision over Dykes in a previous fight here in February, 1952, when Gavilan was still welterweight champion.

The outdoor ring for the event has been equipped with a canvas cover in case of rain.

The fight will be scored on the point system, in which the winner of each round gets 10 points and the loser 9 or less.

Drills Short Grid Players

There was a shortage of football players Tuesday, but the Nebraska Cornhuskers continued their spring drills, placing the emphasis on fundamentals and defensive skills.

Business Administration College departmental examinations knocked a good many players out of the practice, injuries others and the flu a few more.

Absent with varying injuries—none serious—were Halfbacks Don Comstock of Scottsbluff and Lyle Martin of Grand Island, and Tackles Eldon Hoeltling of Lawrence and LaVerne Pensick of Columbus.

Flu victims were End Don Hewitt of Des Moines, Ia., and Center Charles Kemper of St. Michael.

Vet Anderson To Play Here

Orinthal (Andy) Anderson signed his contract with the Lincoln Chiefs, business manager Dick Wagner announced Tuesday.

Wagner also said that Pitcher Bert Haysom, up from Billings, Mont., in the Pioneer League, had agreed to terms for 1955.

Anderson, who hit 16 home runs, 27 doubles and drove in 91 runs for Lincoln's Western League entry last season, inked his contract in Colorado Springs where he resided during the winter.

Both Anderson and Haysom will be on hand Saturday when the Chiefs open spring training in Huntsville, Tex. Haysom, a right-hander, won 12 and lost 7 for Billings in 1954.

Only unsigned players now on the roster are holdover Vance Carlson, Dick Drilling and Loyal Bloxam, all pitchers. Drilling and Bloxam were with Denver's Western League flag winners last season.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Redskins have signed Frank Radella, 21-year-old center, who was the club's 25th draft choice.

City Allocates $4,500 For Park Improvements

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Announcement of coaches for the Lincoln Chiefs' advance ticket drive and the City Council's approval of a $4,500 expenditure for Sherman Field improvements highlighted the baseball news here Tuesday.

Joe Fenton, General Chairman of the baseball ticket campaign—slated for March 23-25—during National Baseball Week—announced late Tuesday the team coaches from the five service clubs who will spearhead the drive.

The lineup by clubs:
Exchange—Oliver E. Lahr.
Lions—Redge Davies.
Optimist—John W. Stahn.
Rotary—Howard Litch.
Sertoma—Sed Yoder.

Each club has been assigned a quota of 1,000 books or 11,000 tickets to sell. The five clubs will strive competitively to sell 55,000 tickets in the downtown district.

Business firms and employees downtown will be contacted by the club workers. Suburbs will be handled individually by respective clubs in those areas. An announcement concerning the clubs in suburban areas is expected soon.

The 55,000 ticket goal is for the downtown district only. An out-of-town campaign also is planned. The suburb drive and the out-of-town drive will seek to augment the 55,000 goal set Tuesday.

Districts Assigned

Districts for the downtown campaign also were assigned Tuesday. They are:

Rotary—10th Street west.
Lions—10th to 11th east.
Optimist—11th to 12th east.
Sertoma—12th to 13th east.
Exchange—13th east.

The bargain books will contain 11 tickets for the price of 10. Both grandstand (at $9) and bleacher ($6) books will be sold. Fenton said Tuesday the savings will be good only during the three-day drive.

A Kick-Off Breakfast will be held at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday the 23rd, at the Hotel Cornhusker, and all coaches and workers are asked to attend.

The clubs will be asked to work districts on Wednesday and Thursday, with all areas open Friday. Check-in will be Friday night at the Cornhusker.

Prize For Winner

It has already been announced that the club selling the most books will be presented with a prize.

Tuesday's action by the City Council resulted in approving more than half of the $8,000 requested by the Lincoln Civic Baseball Association. The Lincoln Baseball Club (the Chiefs) will recommend the work to be done.

All work will be contracted for by the city with some of the projects being done by the city itself. In this way, city officials expressed the hope that savings could be realized which would permit completion of all essential jobs.

In asking the city for funds, the Association listed a number of needed improvements, including the seeding of the outfield, lighting, oil mat surfacing of roads and parking lot to cut down dust, painting of bleachers, an improved concrete entrance and a new press box. The city stated it will do however much work that can be completed for $4,500.

The city will take the $4,500 from its $40,496 contingency fund. Sherman field is owned by the city and leased to the Association which sub-leases to the Club.

Wagner Elated

Dick Wagner, general manager of the Chiefs, was elated at the news of the Council's action.

"We are extremely grateful for this help from the city," he said. "We hope to do everything for the betterment of the park for the benefit of the fans."

Wagner said he felt "baseball in Lincoln is going along fine," and explained that the Chiefs hope to use the money allocated by the Council to improve the outfield and the lights and to surface the parking areas to control the dust problem.

Tireless Argentine

The only man to crack this North American superiority is Oswaldo Suarez, the tireless Argentine who added the 5,000-meter crown Tuesday to the 10,000-meter championship he took on Sunday.

He won in a stirring stretch duel with Horace Ashenfelter, the U.S. Olympic steeplechase champion.

Gordien won the discus with a toss of 174 feet, 2 1/2 inches, the new Pan-American shot put king, was right behind him with 167 feet, 6 1/2 inches, both bettering the games mark of 160-4 set at Buenos Aires by Jim Fuchs.

Richards, who has soared over the 15-foot mark more than 60 times with the long pole, won the vault with a leap of 14 feet, 9 1/2 inches, equalling his winning performance at Buenos Aires in 1951. Bobby Smith of San Diego State was second and Don Laz, the ex-Illinois star, third.

195 Points

The three gold medals, plus four second places and heavy lesser scoring boosted the United States' unofficial team score to 195 points, beyond reach of her closest rival and defending champion, Argentina, which has 56 1/2.

Charles Thomas of the University of Texas and Rod Richard, in the armed services via UCLA, both qualified for the 200-meter finals, with Richard making it in 20.9 seconds, easing up.

Dodgers To Be Better —Alston

By JOE REICHLER

MIAMI, Fla. (P) — Sophomore skipper Walter Alston Tuesday cited several reasons why his runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers will be better this season, not the least important reason being that he expects to be a better manager.

"I think it will be easier for me this year," said the man who was criticized in some quarters last year for being indecisive, "because I know my own club much better and because I am more familiar with the rest of the league."

"New Alston"

Already they're calling the quiet, scholarly gentleman from Oxford, Ohio, the "new Alston" because of the way he has taken charge in camp here. A year ago at this time he was a man groping in strange surroundings, undecided just how to deal with such established stars as Jackie Robinson, Pee Wee Reese, Gil Hodges, Roy Campanella, Duke Snider, Carl Furillo and the rest. Today, he is giving signs of becoming a take-charge manager.

The players have felt it, too. As a result, the team appears in shape to open the season right now despite the unusually late spring training start.

"The club is further along now than at this time a year ago," Alston said. "Because of the late start, we crammed it down their necks more. I don't think any of them look for additional exercise after they finish their daily workouts."

Robby's Opinion

Robinson, who in other years used to preserve his energy and hustle for the regular campaign, expressed the sentiments of his teammates concerning the "new Alston."

"In all the years I've been in baseball, I've never seen harder workers," Robinson volunteered. "Alston has them all going all out and that goes for me, too."

Several things point to a better year for Alston and the Dodgers this year. First and foremost is the good news concerning Campanella's hand. The catcher hurt it last spring and the injury was aggravated during the regular season. Now the hand is almost as good as new following two operations.

Loose And Easy

Also, pitcher Don Newcombe has been throwing with a loose and easy motion, giving no indication of soreness in his right shoulder. Still another reason is the deep impression made by such youngsters as shortstop Chico Fernandez and Don Zimmer, second baseman Charley Neal, outfielder Bert Hamric and pitchers Karl Spooner and Ed Roebuck.

"That may be my biggest problem," observed Alston, "whether to go with new talent or play it safe with veterans. That problem, however, should work itself out as the training season progresses."

Although he declined to make any predictions, Alston said he expected Brooklyn, New York and Milwaukee to have the best chance of winning the pennant.

Braves Tougher

"Milwaukee is a cinch to be tougher than last year," he said. "They've got real good pitching and with Bobby Thomson back they will have good punch to go along with their pitching. The Giants proved they were tough last year. There is no reason to think they won't be just as tough this year."

Despite the fine showing of Fernandez and Zimmer, Alston dispelled stories he planned to move Reese to second or third.

"Pee Wee is my shortstop until someone takes the job away from him. And I don't see how anyone can. He enjoyed his best season last year. The same goes for Junior Gilliam. He's my second baseman."

"He fell off a bit last year because he sacrificed getting on base by concentrating on the long ball. I think he's more valuable to the club when he concentrates on getting his bases on balls and cutting down on his swing. He now realizes that, too."

As of the moment, Alston has no idea where Robinson will play except that he will be somewhere in the lineup every day barring injury or a batting slump.

"Robby will play where we will need him the most. He does a pretty good job at four positions, first, second, third and left field."

'Baseball Week' To Open Saturday

COLUMBUS, O. (P) — With some five million persons spearheading the drive, National Baseball Week will be observed starting Saturday.

George M. Trautman, president of the minor leagues who initiated the idea, said a countrywide dedication to the national sport is planned through civic meetings, parades, club ticket-selling campaigns, radio and television shows and street-corner chats.

Professional and amateur baseball have joined hands for the observance, endorsed by everyone from the sandlotters to Commissioner Ford C. Frick.

Of the 48 governors, 32 have officially proclaimed the week and asked fullest observance. The Sporting Goods Dealers' Assn. has set up its 6,000 stores as headquarters for local committees to map plans for civic meetings, parades and other activities.

"The major leagues, and the 33 leagues in the national association are going all out—this is not just a professional plan," Trautman said. "It is for all baseball, amateurs and professionals alike."

Boston Takes Edge In NBA Play-Off

BOSTON (P)—Boston's Celtics, ignited by Bob Cousy and Frank Ramsey, broke away in the second period and never let up Tuesday night to defeat New York 122-101 in the first game of their best-of-three National Basketball Assn. playoff series in the Eastern Division.

Remarkable Record

He comes up with a remarkable record in relief. Over the last two years he won 25 games and lost only 4 with Rochester, and he had a 13-1 mark with an earned run average of 2.91 last year.

However, he had fine earned run averages before, including 2.52 in the Southern Assn., with Nashville. The Cubs did bring him up once and he pitched in one game for them, although it doesn't show in his record, but otherwise he was pretty much ignored.

"I'm a little bitter about it sometimes," he says. "But I'm here now, and think I could help the team. If I can't help the Cardinals, who need relief pitching, I'd better quit."

Best Is Sinker

"My best pitch is a sinker. The other day in a squad game they asked me to try a curve ball more, and it threw my control off and I couldn't get it back. They hit me pretty good then. But my arm feels strong. That's the main thing. I pitched winter ball in Venezuela. I went 11 innings in the first game."

So he plugs along, this unassuming "old" rookie from Blue Island, Ill., hoping that his big break didn't come too late. We wondered if Manager Eddie Stanky had given him any encouragement.

"He never says anything," Tony said. "Just writes something in his little book."

Leaders Of Three Nations Agree Communists Can Be Halted Short Of War

... 'Fear' Greatest Danger—Nehru

NEW YORK (INS)—Chief executives of three increasingly important countries agreed Tuesday night that Communist advances can be stopped short of war.

Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Prime Minister Nehru of India and Burma Prime Minister U Nu disagreed however on what role defensive force should be given in fighting Communism.

The trio of world leaders appeared in separate film interviews with U.S. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me) on the Edward R. Murrow "See It Now" telecast on CBS. They were interviewed by the New England senator during her recent world tour.

Nehru was most optimistic about the chances for world peace in the next 20 years and termed "fear" the greatest danger to peace.

Destroys Both
He said "there is greater realization everywhere now about the folly and complete uselessness of war, because it destroys both parties."

Nehru said he does not regard Communism as a threat to his country and said it has been battled "with considerable success," democratically — except when there has been violence — in India.

Franco told Sen. Smith that "peace will always be precarious" while nations that were once sovereign remain under Soviet tyranny.

The Spanish leader added: "War will be less probable if the country that might be considered the aggressor is afraid of losing the war."

To that end, Franco suggested: "Therefore, it is necessary to be prepared, to get stronger . . . moral values and justice must be supported by force."

Franco expressed a strong desire for combatting Communism which he termed "the greatest imperialism that history has ever seen," and said "it must be held back or else it will finish by overcoming Europe and Asia."

Burma's U Nu told the senator that his chief constructive criticism of the United States was "some of your American leaders talk too much."

The Asian leader said that people in his country sometimes become confused by contradictory statements of men from the same Republican party. He added, however:

"We believe, whatever they may be talking, the leaders — the American leaders were doing things in the best interest of their country."

U Nu said he thought the principles of Buddhism and other religions could be applied to "reduce tension in the world."

McClelland Trial Witness Receives Year For Escape

A 50-year-old Nebraska Penitentiary inmate, who was a witness at the McClelland murder trial, has been sentenced to an additional year for escape.

Clarence B. Layman, who had been transferred to the State Hospital for "safekeeping" at his request, broke "ground parole" and disappeared Nov. 14 a few weeks after the trial.

Apprehended at Abilene, Kan., in mid-January, he was held there for investigation before being returned to Nebraska authorities.

Layman was the only state witness who claimed to have witnessed the murder scene in the prison print shop. McClelland was acquitted of the murder charge by a jury.

At the time of his escape, Layman was serving two concurrent four-year terms for forgery. His release with good time had been possible in May.

Richard Jay A Candidate For Re-Election To School Board

Richard A. Jay, 36, manager of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. plant, will be a candidate for election to a six-year term on the Board of Education at the April 5 primary city election.

A member of the board for the past three months, Jay stated he will accept petitions now being circulated in his behalf.

Jay was appointed to the board last December to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late Dr. John P. Senning.

A candidate must be elected at the May 3 general election to serve the remaining four years of Senning's term.

The only announced candidate to date for that short term is Glenn Yaussi, senior vice president of the National Bank of Commerce.

In making his announcement, Jay stated, "I hope the citizens of Lincoln will permit me the opportunity to serve again on the school board."

While offering little experience directly useful to the school system, I feel I can offer some helpful business experience.

"I am complimented by the suggestion of my friends to run, and I hope the people will see fit to let me serve a six year term."

Jay has been active in various community projects including the

No Conflict Seen

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS)—U. N. Palestine truce chief Gen. E. L. M. Burns declared there is no danger of a full-scale conflict between the Arab states and Israel and said the Middle East situation has "calmed down" since the bloody Gaza Strip clash of Feb. 28.

The Canadian officer commented on the Middle East on his arrival in New York for a personal report to the U. N. Security Council Thursday on the Gaza incident in which 47 Egyptian and Israeli soldiers were killed. Burns has drafted a report on the shooting, for which the U. N. Mixed Armistice Commission has blamed Israel.

City-School Play Areas Ok'd By Unit

LB 169, permitting second class cities to operate recreational facilities jointly with school districts, was reported out Tuesday by the Legislature's education committee.

The committee also reported out LB 193, leaving the ceiling off of the Lincoln school levy until 1959; and LB 406, setting up additional conditions for annexation of land to school districts.

The annexation bill was sought as a means of alleviating the situation of rural districts adjacent to the Lincoln Air Base.

New U.S. Missile Has 'Its Own Brain'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force said Tuesday its newest missile, the Falcon, is a miraculous weapon with the assigned mission of knocking down "enemy bombers, carrying the hydrogen bomb, long before they reach their targets."

"Virtually every hit is a sure kill," Asst. Secretary of the Air Force Trevor Gardner reported.

The Air Force described the Falcon as "the only air-to-air missile with a brain of its own" and said it is the first line of defense against air attack.

Howard Hughes, president of the Hughes Aircraft Company which developed the Falcon in a six-year project employing more than a thousand men, was just as enthusiastic. He reported:

"Once the target has been pointed out to it, the missile's (electronic) brain will steer it to anticipate and strike that target no matter how the bomber maneuvers."

The six-foot, 100-pound Falcon, a little fellow as lethal weapons go, is due soon to be supplied as armament for all-weather fighter interceptors in the Arctic and other points on the approaches to North America.

The Air Force also held out hope Tuesday for the early success of other missiles, to be equipped with atomic warheads. These are being developed to carry America's defensive and counter-attacking blows thousands of miles from the homeland.

Another missile, in an advanced state of development, is the "Rascal," designed to extend the already long range attacking capability of such big jet bombers as the B47 and B52.

Miles From Target

The Rascal would be launched by strategic bombers several hundred miles from the intended target. They will carry atomic warheads and will have built-in guidance systems to direct them to specific targets.

The Air Force removed some of the secrecy wraps that have surrounded the Falcon in a succession of statements, pictures, and an address by Asst. Secretary Gardner.

The Falcon missile is in production by the Hughes Co. at Tucson, Ariz.

The various reports Tuesday gave this general picture: All the fighter pilot has to do is to get his plane within radar range of an enemy bomber.

After that an intricate electronics system takes over and guides the fighter towards its target. When the sensitive mechanism decides that the target is within range—from three to five miles—the Falcon attached under the wing of the fighter is automatically loosed and dashes to the kill at a speed faster than sound.

Should the enemy bomber try to maneuver out of the way, the Falcon will change course and follow the target to the point of impact. Gardner said its warhead "can destroy any enemy bomber in the world."

Bank Robber Buff Given Life Term

Eugene William Buff, 33-year-old Nebraska ex-convict, has been sentenced to a life term in the Iowa State Penitentiary for the $26,000 holdup of the Commercial State Bank of Afton, Ia. He had pleaded guilty to a charge of entering a bank with intent to rob. Buff was arrested just south of the Iowa-Missouri border seven hours after the holdup. Only the day before, he had been released from the Nebraska prison after completing a 15-year armed robbery term. (AP Photo)

Osteopathy 'Equality' Still Hangs

Kill Attempt Fails; DOs Called A 'Cult'

A bill to permit osteopaths to practice medicine in Nebraska in the same status as physicians was lodged in the Legislature's public health committee Tuesday after the failure of an attempt to kill it.

The vote to kill the measure was 3 to 3 with the seventh senator abstaining. The committee then adjourned.

A bill to license masseurs and provide for a board of examiners was reported out by the committee.

LB 399 would permit graduates of a school of osteopathy to take the same examination given to graduates of medical schools.

The proposal was vigorously attacked by spokesmen for the Nebraska Medical Assn. (NMA).

Called A 'Cult'

Dr. E. B. Reed, representing the NMA, called osteopathy a "cult" and said it is in the "twilight zone of professionalism."

"It takes more than a law to make a doctor out of an osteopath," charged NMA Executive Secretary M.C. Smith.

"If a doctor is to practice medicine — good medicine — he must have the basic background of a school of medicine."

Dr. C. E. Brown, Nebraska City, representing the Nebraska Osteopathic Assn., said the passage of the law would bring aid to the health problems of rural areas now suffering from a shortage of physicians.

Osteopaths Handicapped

"The people of Nebraska now are barred forever from osteopathic care," Dr. Brown declared.

He said osteopaths in the state currently are prevented from administering penicillin and sulfa drugs, performing vaccinations and blood transfusions, and performing tonsilectomies and other surgery.

M. R. Hinds, Palisade, said the western portion of the state needs the services of osteopaths equipped to perform medical functions.

Smith contended that the osteopaths could take the state examination at present if the American Medical Assn. (AMA) were asked to accredit osteopathic schools.

Dr. Brown replied that the schools now are accredited by the American Osteopathic Assn.

Licensing Masseurs Unopposed

The bill providing for the licensing of masseurs, LB 445, was unopposed.

An earlier measure heard before the public health committee had been opposed by Dr. E. A. Rogers, State Health Director, on the grounds that it placed the masseurs along side the physicians, dentists, and other members of the healing arts.

LB 445 lists the masseurs with barbers and beauty operators.

Testifying in support of the measure were Mrs. Gladys Weiler, Nebraska Masseurs Assn.; Dr. J. G. Morris, Omaha therapist; and Dr. E. H. Frech, Lincoln osteopath.

The bill was suggested by a committee member, Sen. Lester Anderson of Aurora.

2 Districts Set Up; Change In Zones Tossed

The City Council has passed two controversial ordinances for the creation of special improvement districts and turned down a contested ordinance for a zoning change.

One of the special improvements is a sewer district in Aylesworth, 59th to 60th, 60th, Aylesworth to Colby, Colby, 60th to 300 feet east; and between 60th and 62nd from Colby to the alley between Walker and Leighton.

The second special improvement is a paving district in the same area, 60th from Aylesworth to Colby. New home builders proposed the improvement to facilitate development of the area.

Present residents involved objected to the formation of the districts on the grounds that the area was not suitable for large residential developments.

The disputed zoning ordinance turned down on third reading would have changed the classification of property at the southeast corner of 33rd and Sheridan from residential to local business to permit construction of a filling station.

Ordinances approved on third and final reading:

Permitting public use of tavern side doors.

Paving of 57th, Greenwood to Knox.

Paving of Mohawk, 46th to 47th and 47th, Mohawk to Hill Dr.

Sewer in area between Colfax and Seward and 64th to 65th.

Change in zoning from A-1 single family residential to A-2 single family residential at 61st and Normal.

Anderson's Lobby Report Idea Out

The public health committee Tuesday declined to introduce in the Legislature a bill that would have lobbyists submit financial statements once a year instead of monthly.

The bill was suggested by a committee member, Sen. Lester Anderson of Aurora.

Anderson criticized the present system as giving constituents a false impression regarding how much money lobbyists spend on their senators.

1909 Marriage License Lacks Certification

A marriage license issued by the Lancaster County Clerk in 1909 was returned this week — 45 years later — to be "registered."

Issued to a prospective 25-year-old groom and his 20-year-old bride, the license has never been certified, showing a marriage ceremony was performed.

Court personnel were told, when the license was returned, that a marriage ceremony was performed, but the minister — now dead — had failed to certify the license.

The bride — now some 65 years old — was shocked when advised of the omission, necessary to the legal certification of a marriage.

However, the defect may not be too serious as common law marriages in the state before 1922 are recognized, one court attaché said.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

BAERING DOWN ON THE NEWS By Arthur 'Bugs' Baer

(Distributed by International News Service)

Getting loaded up with hearing aid commies chirp, "This is a world I never made."

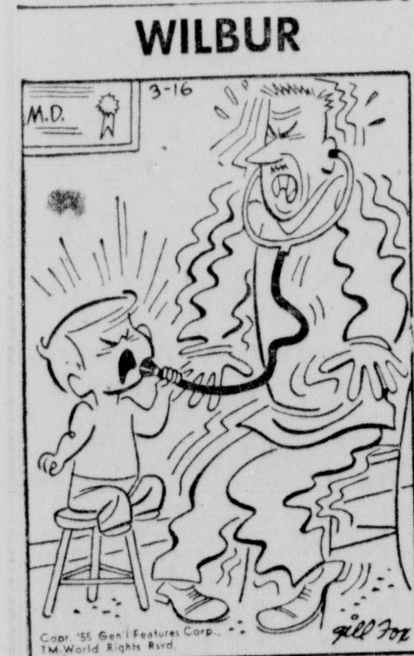

Truth is they never made anything. They're breathing air they never mixed, eating food they never grew in a land they never fought for.

The crack, "A world I never made" is supposed to shake off responsibility and gratitude like snow off hats.

Other things they never made were the clothes they wear, the cars they drive, the jumpsteady they drink, the planes they fly in, the sun that warms 'em and the laws that protect 'em.

They never made a road, built

WILBUR

"I SAID THIS THING IS COLD ON MY CHEST!"

Serge Rubinstein lived in a world he never made and fouled the nest.

That's a tough epitaph so we hope he's in heaven. But we're afraid he never made that either.

"A world I never made" is current coin among young people in schools and colleges. Well, the teen-agers have the right to be as idealistic as they want. Let 'em remember they didn't build the house they live in. But they've got to keep their rooms clean.

The finest sentiment in the world is gratitude. Why? Because it contains all the others worth while. There's no hate in gratitude. There's no treachery in gratitude.

There's love, respect, admiration, devotion, decency, patriotism, clean thought and correct adjustment in gratitude. We diagnose gratitude as the pay-off window of the soul.

QUICKS

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Charles A. J. Maass read his three-page essay on traffic laws to Judge Tom Bergin, and flunked the course.

Charged with driving with a noisy muffler, Maass read a statement which described the ordinance on mufflers as "ambiguous and uncertain."

The judge had no alternative, Maass said, "but to hold the ordinance void."

Bergin listened attentively, then fined Maass $25.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It
One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two U's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
